Requirements of the Modern.
By A. A. Sage, Athletic Director,
The University of Chicago.

In football the player is the backbone of the team. They clear the way for the advance into the opponent's territory, as well as bear the heavy burden of fighting against the opponent's advances.

The most important player in the line is called the center because he is the one around whom the scrimmage forms. Inasmuch as the center usually starts all play from scrimmage, he ought to have good judgment and quick intelligence. He should be aggressive and possess good tackling ability; also, he should be a subject to hard punishment.

The guard was named because he was to guard the center as he passed the ball. He now is often used as an interloper. In general guards have been big, husky, powerful, agile, and fairly fast, with lots of determination, because on defense they nearly always have two forwards against them.

The tacklers were named distinctly for their work, as they are expected to do the heavy work of the team at tackling, and they still have that job. Upon the tacklers the brunt of aggressive, defensive work falls, first because their point in the line is the most attacked; second, because they are the nearest men to the play who have freedom of action for driving through into the opponent's territory.

On offense a large part of the running attack centers in the region of the tackle or tackle over. The tackle should possess good tackling ability, quickness, shiftness, good speed, aggressiveness and fighting ability, and the more weight you can get with these characteristics the better.

The characteristics of a first-class end are quick intelligence, good judgment, along with speed, shiftness, aggressiveness, quickness, shiftness and skill in handling forward passes. Since the end men are next to the broad open side field, they must possess excellent good judgment on the defense to make it just as hard as possible for the runner to invade that space other than from scrimmage or in cutting back, and also they must know how to prevent short forward passes from being made effectively there.

War on Rats Resumed in United Kingdom

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Oct. 2.—The war on rats, which was suspended while the other war was in progress, is being resumed by the ministry of agriculture, which estimates that property to the value of $250,000,000 is destroyed in the United Kingdom every year by rats. The chief rat infestation is on the board of agriculture estimates that each rat destroys property to the value of about $5 every year, while an official of the British medical association lays the spread of many deadly diseases, including trench fever, to rats. Already precautions have been taken at the London docks which will prevent rats from landing from ships and which if they do land, speedily ends in their death.

Foodstuffs Are Held up at Freight Terminals

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Oct. 2.—Perishable foodstuffs are being kept from the city market by the use of refrigerator cars for storage purposes at freight terminals with resultant losses to the grower and consumer, investigators of the bureau of markets announced today.

As a permanent remedy they recommended the construction of adequate cold storage at terminals for temporary storage of perishable products, which would release immediately refrigerator cars upon their arrival at markets.

Dresden Water Plant Has to Give up Dynamos

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] With the American forces in Germany, Oct. 2.—A report from Dresden says that the city power plant which employs more than a thousand men, may be forced to close within a few weeks, because under the terms of the peace treaty, the German government is bound to return to France the stolen dynamos used in the plant. The superintendent has appealed to Berlin for substitute dynamos in order to provide power for Dresden.

King and Queen of Belgium Are Endeared to Populace

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Oct. 2.—Albert I, King of the Belgians, the only newspaper reporter who ever became a monarch, is 44 years old and is one of the most picturesque figures of the great war. The king took a post-graduate course in "newspaper" training in 1903 when, somewhat like Peter the Great, he visited the shipyards of France, Great Britain, Italy, Germany and Scandinavia, to learn everything possible regarding ocean carriers with the expectation at some future time of putting Belgium high in the class of maritime powers. Several years previously, it is said, when merely the son of the Count of Flanders, nephew of King Leopold, he came to the United States and worked as a reporter on one of two newspapers in the northwest.

Successing to the crown Dec. 23, 1909, Albert I endeared himself to the 7,500,000 people of his little kingdom. The abuses of the Congo, which had brought the head of his aged uncle, Leopold, the condemnation of the civilized world, were abolished and the king and his beautiful consort faced the prospect of a long and happy reign in a country where "tramps, idlers and soup houses are unknown."

Then came the war. The king of the Belgians might have yielded and escaped much of the hardship and suffering that was the lot of himself and his people for more than four years. Hedging not the specious promises of the Germans to pay Belgium huge sums for the privilege of crossing her soil to attack France, the gallant king rallied his army of 350,000 men and placed himself at their head to fight the invader. When the German armies violated the neutrality of the little nation they were pledged to protect, they met with the stubborn resistance of inferior Belgians at the forts of Liege and Namur.

During the great conflict King Albert spared himself none of the rigors of the soldier. Once a German shell tore off the wheel of the automobile in which he was riding, another time a chauffeur, who had been promised $200,000 to deliver the king to the enemy was shot dead as he endeavored to drive the royal car into the German lines.

"My skin is of no more value than yours," he told his heartless soldiers on their retreat from Antwerp. "My place is on the firing line." Independence humiliates Kaiser. Although his mother was a Hohenzollern princess and his wife a Bavarian princess, and although in his youth he had been educated in Germany, he maintained an independence of character that irritated the former emperor of Germany. The latter, among other honors before the war, conferred upon Albert I, the title of honorary colonel of the blacked horse regiment, an act which the Belgian press construed as an effort of the German ruler to gain an influence over the young king.

An invasion of Belgium came when Belgium was invaded. In taking command of his troops August 6, 1914, he said: "A neighbor, naughtily in its strength, without provocation, has torn up a treaty bearing its signature and has violated the territory of our fathers because we refused to let our honor be attacked. Seeing its independence threatened, the nation trembled and its children sprang to the frontier, silent byers in a sacred cause. I have confidence in your tenacious courage. I greet you in the name of Belgium, a fellow citizen who is proud and in return as Victor."

Friday Nov. 15, 1918, after years of bitter privation King Albert returned with his victorious troops to his devastated but beloved capital amid the loud acclaim of the people.

Queen Elizabeth, who was married to King Albert in 1900, as the Duchess Elizabeth of Bavaria, was described at the time as "a strikingly handsome woman." The marriage was quite generally supposed to have been a genuine love match. Three children have been born to them, the heir apparent Prince Leopold, Duke of Brabant, born November 3, 1901; a second son, Prince Charles Theodore, born in 1903; and a daughter, the Princess Marie Jose, born in 1906. The queen is highly educated and of unusual literature and art. Music is said to be a passion with her and she is an accomplished violinist. Some years ago she developed a dramatic and in 1906 wrote "Rosamund," a play which was produced in Brussels in March of that year and caused a decided stir in the Belgian capital. She is also a skilled horsewoman.

Nursed Wounded Soldiers. During the war the queen nursed many wounded soldiers. A daughter introduced in the senate to grant complete amnesty to all persons of good faith who are now in arms against the government has evoked approval by many legislators and others. However, Luis Cabrera, secretary of the treasury, who many times has acted as the mouthpiece for that government, has termed such a bill politically inexpedient and wholly unduly in view of the elections to be held next July.

Debate over the measure promises to afford some excitement in the upper house of congress.

Peace League Urges Ratification of Treaty

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Oshkosh, Oct. 1.—At a meeting Tuesday evening of the Oshkosh branch of the league to enforce peace, a petition was drawn up asking the Wisconsin lawmakers at Washington to ratify the pending peace treaty without amendments or reservations.

Prof. Kerr's Estate Valued at $40,000

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, Oct. 1.—An estate valued at $40,000, it was announced today was left by Alexander Kerr, professor emeritus of the university, who died last Friday. One tenth of the estate or about $4,000 consisted almost entirely of a large library including books written in Greek. James H. Kerr, Chicago, and Charles H. Kerr, Portland, Oregon, sons, are heirs. He left no will.

Emergency Budget Is Adopted in Germany

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Berlin, Tuesday, Sept. 30.—The German national assembly today adopted the emergency budget through all its stages without debate. Gustav Noake, minister of defense, told the committee on military affairs that German forces, which were recently about 400,000, are being rapidly reduced, as enlistments are forbidden and many soldiers are leaving the ranks.

SOARING COSTS OF
MATERIAL FORCES
DOCTORS TO RAISE

Janesville physicians declaring that their prices are far lower than charged in other communities and not sufficient to offset the soaring prices of materials have raised their fees. In most instances the increases have been slight, according to the doctors.

Day visits between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. will now cost the patient $2.50. Night calls from 9 p. m. to 7 a. m. will not be made for less than $5.00. Out-of-pocket fees have been raised to a minimum of $25. On calls to the country the doctors will charge 75 cents per mile during the day and $1 per mile at night, in addition to the above fees.

Dr. Fred Welch, city health officer, in discussing the new prices said today that it was the only course open to the physicians of Janesville if they were to be paid for their services.

"Materials have increased everywhere and in the purchasing of gauze, cotton and bandages the physicians are forced to pay prices never dreamed of before," said Dr. Welch. Dr. Welch said that it would be impossible for a doctor to charge the old fees and make a living if he was forced to pay the prices now asked for materials.

In discussing the cost of gauze, which doctors now claim is difficult to purchase, Dr. Welch said that during the war the negro labor in the south came north and the southern cotton growers were forced to pay higher wages and consequently charge more for the cotton.

"The manufacturers in the east have been forced to increase the wages of their employees and to meet the higher wages they have found it necessary to increase the price charged for gauze," Dr. Welch said.

He also pointed out that in raising the prices charged for country calls the doctors were forced to take into consideration the prices now being charged by garages for repairing automobiles.

TEXANS ASK HELP
OF LOCAL PEOPLE

Janesville residents, who have generously assisted storm and fire stricken people of other communities in the past, have again been called upon for financial aid. Mayor T. E. Welch has received a letter from Corpus Christi, Texas, asking financial aid for the people who have suffered from the tidal wave and hurricane.

The letter states that 5,000 people are destitute and the property loss exceeds $20,000,000. More than 75 percent of the business men of the town are bankrupt and financial aid is needed at once if the people are to be helped.

Mayor Welch has asked the Gazette to conduct a relief fund which was started a few days ago. Janesville people are asked to send their subscriptions to the Relief Fund, Gazette.

Money is needed by the people of Corpus Christi and the residents of Janesville are asked for help. Send what you can to the Gazette and it will be forwarded immediately.

FULL-BLOODED INDIANS TO HOLD CONVENTION

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 2.—Members of prominent Indian tribes from parts of the United States, Canada, Mexico, and South America are expected here to attend the convention of the Society of American Indians, to be held tomorrow for a three-day session. It is said to be the first "convention" of full-blooded Indians ever called.

The meeting is particularly for the benefit of the Indians of the United States, and the slogan is "American Citizenship for Indians." It is designed to have the tribes of all nations on the hemisphere represented.

The society was organized at Ohio State university in April, 1911, and has for its object the uplift and enlightenment of the American Indians, citizenship rights for each redman being especially desired.

The meeting will be held on the campus of the University of Minnesota with President Martin L. Roy, Burden of the university presiding. Dr. Carlos Montezuma, Chicago, a full-blooded Apache and a practicing physician, and Dr. Charles A. Eastman of Amberst college, a full-blooded Sioux who is president of the society, will be among the principal speakers. The program also includes Indian pageant showing the attitude of the early settlers toward the Indians, to be held at a local park.

Disorderly Case Is Thrown Out of Court

Failing to convince Judge Maxfield that the testimony introduced was sufficient to warrant the guilt of Helen Drought, Frank Drought, Rachael Johnson and Iver Johnson, charged with disorderly conduct, City Attorney Roger Cunningham lost his case yesterday afternoon. Judge Maxfield sustained the contention of the defendants' attorney that the raiding officers' testimony did not prove the parties guilty.

HOT HEADS WILL COOL.

The Old World continues in a state of hectic fever, and the doings of excited, selfish men add to the gloom of the pessimistically inclined in this country.

D'Annunzio continues to hold Rome, to the satisfaction of many of his countrymen, and to the chagrin of the South Slavs, who want to fight rather than lose access to the sea. What shall be done about it? The cooler heads in Italy seem to be badly outnumbered, and no one dares to oppose the militant poet. It is all very much of a mess, and President Wilson, of course, is to blame for the whole business. Rome was an ancient Roman city. To be sure, it is the only seaport available for the South Slavs, but who in Italy cares a whoop for the aspirations of the Slavs. And by what right does President Wilson presume to look out for them?

Then here we have Belgium in the act of demanding territory from Holland, and the two little countries calling their ministers home. Holland now has some territory in Limburg that belonged to Belgium a hundred years ago, and was ceded by treaty. Little Belgium, the put-upon, the victim of a covetous aggression, now wants territory! We cannot understand it. Meanwhile the European Reds continue to rage, though they give signs of cooling down as winter draws near and their hunger increases.

Are we to help soothe Europe and placate the ambitious and obstreperous small nations, or are we not? President Wilson says we can help them by signing the peace treaty, and he denies that we will need to send soldiers to stop every little riot that arises. Certainly the treaty, as finally adopted, with reservations, will safeguard us against using our military forces without action by congress.

Perhaps when the new concert of nations is organized after peace is established, the fears of the pessimists will prove unjustified. The most hot-blooded, ill-advised patriots cannot hold out permanently against a policy of commercial non-intercourse. No poet can defy effectively the combined authority of all leading nations, even if he is backed by an overwhelming sentiment at home.

Justice and common sense are bound to prevail soon. The force of arms probably will not be needed to settle minor disputes. The United States is evidently going to have something to say about the general maintenance of peace, in Europe and elsewhere, whether we all like it or not.

PAVING THE WAY?

Reports are now being put out from newspaper correspondents who were on President Wilson's special train that the president will seek a third term in case the senate adopts reservations to the league covenant. It is being freely asserted by gentlemen in a position to know what the president has in mind, that if serious reservations are attached to the covenant the president will postpone the treaty and refuse to resubmit it to the other nations. Following that he would take the position that the senate in effect had rejected the treaty, he would demand another nomination at the hands of his party and would carry the issue into the 1920 campaign, hoping to insure himself a re-election.

This information has not caused any particular surprise in Washington. Nor will it in any way alter the position which is being taken by senators who are insistent that the rights of America be preserved. In one sense the statements, which it is not doubted are inspired either by the president himself or by his secretary are looked upon as a threat to induce senators to abandon the idea of reservations. In other words, the assertions that the president will carry the league issue into the campaign if reservations are attached are susceptible of the construction that they are meant to reach to senators who are particularly desirous of having nothing interfere with getting the treaty and covenant out of the way.

However, the third term talk is given a different construction by many public men. It has long been believed in many quarters that the president has been maneuvering about to find what he regarded as an excuse for making the campaign for a third term on the league issue. Those who have believed that this was his purpose from the outset see in the present stories clear evidence that what they expected to occur is actually occurring. They point out that the president has mysteriously refrained from saying anything that could be regarded as implying he did not want a third term.

The president professes to believe that 80 percent of the people are back of him in his insistence that the league be adopted without the crossing of a "Y" or the dotting of an "I". If the president actually believes that this is true, then it follows that he believes if he runs in 1920 on the issue of forcing the league covenant through unchanged, he is certain to be overwhelmingly re-elected. Bearing these things in mind, and knowing how completely the president wants to turn the United States away from the paths mapped out by George Washington, who was not only against entangling alliances with foreign nations, but also against third terms, it can readily be understood that there is a substantial basis of fact for the predictions of correspondents concerning the president's purposes and plans for 1920.

HOW CAN IT BE DONE?

John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers, left an estate of $258,000. That is not bad for a labor leader. It is a damned sight more than any of the laborers will leave when they die, but of course they are just workers, not labor officials, and they do not have the chance to do much else but pay in their dues so that leaders can be responsible for leaving huge fortunes. However it is, men like Mitchell who guide the destinies of the laboring man and say whether he shall go on strike even though he is satisfied, and starve his family and himself while the strike official generally dines on the best food.

Mitchell was a high grade man because he was well equipped mentally. The accusation cannot be made that he did not obtain his fortune honestly, but the fact remains that at the time he died he had a quarter million dollars. In view of the fact that most labor leaders pose as champions of the down-trodden and are the real instigators of any movement to take a man from his job regardless of his own inclinations, it might be well for our workmen to look into the financial condition of some of the men who are controlling their destinies.

When the average strike leader takes the stump, his stock argument is that the bosses are accumulating too

GREATEST.

"Too busy to come," said the famous man.
When a neighbor called for aid.
"For you I grieve, but I cannot leave."
Said the man with a fortune made.
Proud pomp repelled in a similar way.
"I haven't the time to be kind today."

The sick man sighed for a friendly hand
And the smile of a friendly face.
But the great passed by and he wondered why.
And the swift still kept the pace.
They were all too bent on their own affairs
To give much thought to another's cares.

But one unknown to pomp or fame
Who plodded along the way.
Heard the sick man cry as he wandered by.
And he turned from his busy day
To sit with him for a little while
With a cheerful word and a friendly smile.

For kindness isn't of time or chance.
Nor something that dwells apart.
It does its tasks when a brother asks
And throbs in a friendly heart.
And I think some day we shall come to find
That the greatest man is the one who's kind.

much money; that the laboring man is entitled to his just share. That argument is fair enough, certainly, but when a labor official can boast of a quarter million of dollars as his possession, it would appear that he should remove the dollar from his own eye. That's too much money for a poor, down-trodden labor leader to have.

That first game between the White Sox and the Cincy Reds rather lowered the enthusiasm of local Sox rooters, but they are willing to lay a little coin that Gleason's bunch are still in the running.

It's Rough!

Dealing with Rent Profiteers

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

New York, Oct. 2.—When a landlord raises your rent beyond your means, you do not pay it. Neither do you move, there being practically no place left to which to move. Instead, you rush down to the municipal building and tell the mayor's committee on rent profiteering all about it.

This committee is adjusting from 60 to 80 disputes between tenants and landlords every day, and it is roughly estimated that so far, these adjustments have resulted in a total saving to New York tenants of nearly four million dollars.

Visit the headquarters of the committee any hour of the day, and you will find a crowd of protesting tenants blocking the entrance, impatiently waiting for cases to be heard. It is an interesting crowd, made up of people from all classes but representing a single human emotion—indignation. And as indignation is easily borne in silence, everybody tells his troubles to everybody else with a degree of frankness he would never think of using under normal conditions. Women who would resent being asked the price of their newest hats, do not mind telling perfect strangers how much they cannot afford to pay for rent and food, and men, who in social circles are sensitive concerning their salaries, here boast of their scanty economies with outrageous candor.

Rent Raised Five Times
"They have raised my rent five times in the past year," complained a young business woman to her neighbor the other morning, "and I simply can't stand it any longer."

"They know they have you," returned the neighbor, "and when they raised the rent before, you could always move, but now there isn't any place to move to."

"They've raised my rent from $38 to $59," an elderly man was explaining to a sympathetic listener in another corner. "They haven't made a single repair, and last night my bed room was so cold I had to put a blanket on it but profiteering."

The listener, who was later pointed out as a landlord, discreetly agreed that it must be that.

One of the outsiders of the crowd, a woman in a seakins cape from a Riverside Drive apartment was talking to a colored woman with a young baby.

"Don't you pay it," she said forcefully, as she turned to leave. "If you have any more trouble you come to me, and I'll see that you get your head bandaged up in a gorging."

And placed it in the tiny list of the baby.

According to the red-haired teamster in the crowd, the mayor's committee is doing the greatest work of any municipal department in any part of the country.

Landlords Don't Want Children
"They'll do what they can for you," he said, "but things are very bad. People are being thrown out of their homes in my neighborhood every day, and haven't any place to go. Rents have gone up so everywhere, and the landlords don't want no more children, nor dogs nor cats."

The landlord, while not so numerous as the tenants, are equally indignant when permitted to state their opinions in the seclusion of the private office, where both sides are heard. In the first place, the law, and therefore justice, is on their side, they assert. It is clearly stated in the law that landlords shall have the right to fix the price of their own property, and yet here their legal rights are being interfered with.

"It is perfectly ridiculous," exclaimed one man, who owns a string of cheap apartment houses in a congested part of the city. "The working people are raising the cost of living by strikes, and they kick when they have to pay for it."

Another landlord said that the trouble was you couldn't build property in the present time because of materials, and rent it for such a rate as the tenants ought to pay.

"The American pays too large a proportion of his income to rent," he declared. "It is facts that in many cases, and yet this is necessary to bring a fair return on property. Things are out of gear, but as a whole, the landlords are not to blame. The earning power of the people is not enough for the rents that must be paid."

According to Capt. J. J. Goldsmith, who is the real power of the committee, the landlord is decidedly to blame in most of the cases which come under jurisdiction. The consideration of each case by the committee is entirely impartial. It may also be said to be original. As soon as a tenant makes a complaint, the landlord is notified to appear before the committee. If necessary, he is subpoenaed. The tenant states his side of the case on a blank provided for that purpose, and the landlord states his side of it on a similar blank. Then the committee makes an investigation to determine whether or not these facts are true. With this information in hand, Captain Goldsmith then brings the tenant and the landlord into his office and literally argues them into an equitable settlement. The results are not the triumph of moral suasion rather than of legal authority. The landlord is under no compulsion to concede the slightest advantage to the tenant, but he usually ends by conceding a great deal before Captain Goldsmith gets through with him.

Sometimes these hearings last far into the night, while each side yields inch by inch. In the process the captain usually removes his coat and finally his collar. His English grows more ungrammatical with each passing hour, but his vigor remains as sturdy as ever. One landlord, departing limp and haggard from one such sitting, declared that Captain Goldsmith had wrung his concessions out of him by sheer physical force.

A captain is Man of Vision.
Before Mayor Hiram Jackson took him out for his rent profiteering committee, Goldsmith was a captain in the intelligence corps of the navy, and, although he wears a civilian's clothes, the little still sticks to him. He is a rather short, round Jew, with shrewd, beady eyes and a pleasant, clean-shaven, almost jovial countenance. You might picture him presiding with dignity over an exclusive women's wear shop until he starts to talk, and then you realize that there is a man of remarkable energy and personality and a vision.

An example of the captain's skill in the matter of adjustment is afforded in the recent tenants' strike in Williamsburg. This strike, which ran for six weeks in a block of 17 blocks, could have been avoided, and involved nearly two thousand persons and a rent total of about $35,000 a year. About two months ago this city of tenants' strike was called by a realty company, which immediately decided to raise the rent. Many repairs were needed on the houses, and in order to make these, the company explained, an increase of $24,000 a year would have to be made in the rent total, to be divided among 450 families.

Tenants Form Union
The tenants suspected that something of this sort would happen as soon as they learned that the property had been changed. They quietly began to organize, and when the landlords attempted to put the increase into effect they found a tenants' union ready to oppose it.

The union appointed a committee, which called on the landlords and told them that the raise was exorbitant. A great deal of bargaining ensued, and the landlords reduced their raise by half. But this was not accepted. A further reduction was insisted upon, and the landlords absolutely refused to consider it. So the strike began.

A tenants' strike has none of the disagreeable features of other kinds of strikes, in which the strikers' wages are cut off, so that it proved more entertaining than anything else. They simply paid their rent to their own treasurer instead of to the landlords, and prevented agents of the latter from approaching the houses with threats of violence. The women paraded in the streets with cardboard signs reading, "Here is a Rent Strike," hung over their shoulders and backed to baby carriages, and a number of the strike headquarters, and this was also decorated with signs, while a group of excited women pickets always held the door.

All attempts of the city marshal to evict the striking tenants from the house were a failure. The men forced their way back but they were not by a mob of women who asked if they belonged to a union. When the men said they did, the women explained that they were also unionists, belonging to the Williamsburg tenants' league. At which the men refused to continue their work.

Eventually, after six weeks, the case was amicably adjusted in Captain Goldsmith's office, after a day and night of uninterrupted session. The strike committee agreed to accept a total raise of $750 instead of the proposed $24,000.

But the tenants saved a lot of trouble if they had brought the case to our committee in the first place," declared the captain, who does not believe in rent strikes. During this strike, he says, the tenants paid nearly $3,000 to a lawyer to represent them in the courts when it was foreseen that the case would have been won by the tenants, but they were unable to help them.

Jail Lodger Hangs Self on Rope of Shirt

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

La Crosse, Oct. 2.—Peter Antal, aged 52, Lewiston, Idaho, hanged himself in a cell at the city jail here Tuesday morning, using his shirt as a rope. A similar effort Monday night failed. Antal had $600 with him and a railroad ticket to New York city.

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haskin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information, may write a letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by the bureau.

Is there any law regulating the length of bed sheets? M. W.

A. Many of the states have such laws. The first such statute was enacted in Kansas at the solicitation of the American Commercial Men's union.

Q. Is the song "Coming Through the Rye," based on any particular occurrence? D. M.

A. The "Rye" referred to in this song is not a grain field but a river. It is located in Scotland and it used to be necessary, in crossing it, to use stepping stones. While thus crossing, the Scotch lasses were a bit helpless and the lads often stole kisses from them.

Q. Is it true that the president selected his church in Washington by accident? T. C. G.

A. The first Sunday after President Wilson was inaugurated, he started to service at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church. When he got to the church he was asked so thickly that his driver could not find a place. He suggested that the driver go to another church of the same denomination and was directed to the Central Presbyterian church.

Q. What senators are new in the present congress? D. W.

A. The new senators are: Lawrence C. Phillips, republican, Colorado; Heister Ball, republican, Delaware; William J. Harris, democrat, Georgia; Medill McCormick, republican, Illinois; William J. Bryan, democrat, Kansas; Augustus O. Stanley, democrat, Kentucky; David I. Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts; Truman H. Newberry, republican, Michigan; B. Harrison, democrat, Mississippi; Henry W. Keyes, republican, New Hampshire; Walter E. Edge, republican, New Jersey; Nat B. Hardaway, democrat, South Carolina; and David E. Kings, republican, West Virginia.

Q. Of what is snookless powder made? C. J. C.

A. Snookless powder is about nine-tenths cotton and one-tenth nitrate. These two ingredients combine so perfectly in burning that not even any smoke is left.

Q. There is somewhere a celebrated description of a West Point graduate. Can you give it to me? E. A.

A. The following is probably the passage you mean: "Erect, vigorous of physique, alert and active, with mind trained to be thorough and exacting, and to take nothing for granted; clean in his habits, reverencing the truth, with a high sense of responsibility for every act, subordinating and respectful; he emerges from his years of apprenticeship to hard work and unrelenting discipline with all his energies at a maximum of efficiency and his character tempered like a Toledo blade."

TRAVELETTE

By NIKSAH.

PENNYFIELD'S MAD TOM.
The story of the cat that always came back is well known.

This is a brand new story about a cat which has been in the city for a long time. It is a small variety known as a mad-tom, which is used by fishermen for bass bait. Here in Washington the fishermen buy their mad-toms from sporting goods stores for a dollar a dozen, take them out on the river fishing, and if they have any left, generally give them to the poor men whom they rented the boat.

One of these professional boatmen, about 25 miles from Washington, is named Pennyfield. His father was President Cleveland's baitman.

Pennyfield has in his bait box one mad-tom which is nearly six inches long and nearly four inches high. Most fishermen believe that a big mad-tom catches a big bass. Hence, they all want this master mad-tom as soon as they see it. They even offer a fancy price for him. They take him out, put him on their hooks and fish with him all day. Then they bring him home and give him back to Pennyfield. For either he bears a charmed life, or else he is too big and fierce looking—no bass has ever touched him.

This remarkable mad-tom seems to be getting used to his little daily run with the anglers. He does not mind a hook in the mouth, and he does not mind the ring in his nose. When he is brought home at night and placed in the live box he wriggles his tail with delight. Pennyfield says that his mad-tom has netted him six or seven dollars this year. He is going to keep him over the winter and start him out again next summer.

What is going to stop the race to the skies of prices? It seems that when an opportunity arises some one will inject new prices into the columns of the papers. And very frequently the opportunity does not arise, yet prices go up just the same.

Congress has failed to do its job in lowering the cost of living on staple commodities. It wants, or rather some members of it want, to declare an armistice for a time and try and settle the question in the meantime. Good if they can do it, but if they cannot, who will do it? Is there not a why? How many doctors in Janesville believe they are absolutely justified in raising the price of medicine mentioned in last night's paper? I would like to get their views on this matter in this same column. Do they realize that there are some people who would rather die than call a doctor, knowing that they could not pay the price? Such people are too proud to want free service. It seems to me that doctors are taking advantage of a situation and it appears that their reasons are almost without weight in this matter.

Doctors can help in the H. C. L. fight if they will. Goodness knows there are enough not helping. And to help they would be benefiting themselves, their patients, and the community. By not helping they are actually electing themselves members of the other class. Voice your opinion, doctors, and let's hear what you have to say aside from publishing a notice of your new rates.

WOMEN EMPLOYEES ARE URGED TO REGISTER TONIGHT TO MARCH

Every woman and girl in the city who is employed in any kind of work is urged to register at the headquarters of the Women's History Club, 702 Court street, Saturday, October 4, at 8 o'clock. The purpose of the registration is to enable the club to determine the number of women employees in the city and to prepare a list of their names and addresses for the purpose of having a parade on the morning of the parade, Wednesday morning, Mrs. Anne Hocking Smith, Chicago, who is arranging the parade, is of the opinion that there will be at least 1,000 women in the parade.

All girls, regardless of capacity in which they are employed, are urged to register tonight so that plans may be laid accordingly. It is desired to have all women workers march in one body, all clerks in a third, and all telephone operators, in fact, all classes of industry in which women are employed.

Mrs. Smith is making elaborate plans for the parade and hopes to make it the most successful of its kind ever staged in Janesville. More than 20 floats depicting war and peace characters from before the time of Christ down to the present day, are planned.

OVERSEAS CAPTAIN TALKS TO ROTARIANS

Capt. A. M. Fellows, who recently returned from overseas where he acted in the capacity of judge-advocate with the Fourth division, second battalion, at Gorty, spoke at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary club yesterday afternoon. He gave an interesting account of his experiences in the war and of the conditions in the German territory on the German front.

Judson Freeman, organizer of the Boy Scout movement, was also present. He reported on the progress of the movement in Janesville. A meeting of the Boy Scout executive was postponed for a few weeks.

J. L. Wilcox related his experiences in climbing Mt. Rainier. A few months ago, thrilling his audience with the narrow escapes encountered. J. T. Hooper was in charge of the meeting.

AMERICAN GIRLS NOW PRINCESSES VISIT HOMELAND

Two American girls who married European titles recently returned to their home land for a visit. They are the Princess Andrea Boncompagni of Italy, formerly Miss Margaret Draper, and the Duchess of Roxburgh, who before her marriage was Miss May Goelet of New York.

The Duchess of Roxburgh (above) and Princess Boncompagni.

At a meeting of the junior-senior party committee last evening, the date of the party was set for Friday, Oct. 17. Last year was the first year that the senior class entertained the junior. In former years the reception was given for the freshmen class.

It was decided at the meeting to put on a variety of stunts, as were given last year. The faculty with the two junior and senior classes will include nearly 200 people.

The committee is composed of Earl Yahn, Miriam Decker, Camilla Barker, Gordon McWay, Leo Powers, Jean McNamara, the Misses Fannie Wilson, Pauline Callen and Hilda Meisner.

At the meeting plans will be made for a series of community dances to be held this winter and programs which will be suitable for them. Miss Janet McAdam is the teacher of the school.

FALL AMENDMENTS TAKEN UP IN SENATE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Oct. 2.—With the calling up the German peace treaty in the senate at 2 o'clock today the 88 amendments proposed by Senator Ford, republican, New Mexico, will be taken up under an agreement for a final vote before adjournment. This will mark the first vote on amendments to the treaty taken in the senate. The Fall amendments would eliminate American representation of the various commissions to be established by the treaty.

Final vote on the pact is expected within a few weeks.

Opposing textual changes necessitating re-submission to Germany, but declaring ratification without reservations to be impossible, Senator Smith, democrat, of Georgia, in the senate today proposed seven reservations to the peace treaty.

While only specifying seven reservations, Senator Smith said he believed that the treaty should be placed upon the labor provisions, but he withheld suggestions because other senators contemplated proposing reservation covering that provision.

CHURCH WOMEN TO ENTERTAIN TEACHERS

The Janesville Federation of Missions, assisted by women from the churches of the city, will hold a reception for the teachers of the Janesville schools Friday evening, at the Cargill Methodist church.

About two hundred guests have been invited to the novel feature, one being planned by the social committee, to break the formality of the occasion, and to assist everyone in making the evening enjoyable. C. E. Ewing, president of the federation, and Mesdames George Jacobs, L. A. Markham, N. L. Sage and Mrs. E. Ewing are in charge of the arrangements.

High School Notes

A change has been made in the law relative to the teacher's retirement fund according to word received at the high school from R. E. Loveland, secretary of the teachers' retirement fund, at Madison.

Under the new law no provision was made in the law for teachers who taught part of the day or week. The law has been amended to give teachers credit for the part time taught but in so doing a deduction must be made from the salary received for teaching part time.

Practical citizenship has been emphasized in the civics classes of the high school this year. The civics classes and English classes went over to the court house this morning to hear the naturalization cases. Nearly 60 cases were tried today by the naturalization examiner, S. B. Wilson, Chicago, and Judge George Grimm, 12 of these were men who had been soldiers.

Ston before you start, was the caution that John Arbuthnot, instructor in physics at the high school, gave to the students today this morning. He said that pushing and jostling in the main room was all unbecomingly for as was jumping on the desks.

Allen B. West, instructor in agriculture, seconded the remarks of Mr. Arbuthnot.

Many experiments were given this morning at the high school by John Arbuthnot, instructor in physics, before the general science class of the Rock county training school.

At a meeting of the junior-senior party committee last evening, the date of the party was set for Friday, Oct. 17. Last year was the first year that the senior class entertained the junior. In former years the reception was given for the freshmen class.

It was decided at the meeting to put on a variety of stunts, as were given last year. The faculty with the two junior and senior classes will include nearly 200 people.

The committee is composed of Earl Yahn, Miriam Decker, Camilla Barker, Gordon McWay, Leo Powers, Jean McNamara, the Misses Fannie Wilson, Pauline Callen and Hilda Meisner.

At the meeting plans will be made for a series of community dances to be held this winter and programs which will be suitable for them. Miss Janet McAdam is the teacher of the school.

REV. WILLMANN'S RE-ELECTED RECTOR OF TRINITY CHURCH

Rev. Henry Willmann was re-elected rector of Trinity Episcopal church at the first meeting of the new vestry held after the business meeting of members of the church in Christ church parish house last evening. In recognition of his 12 years' faithful service as rector of the church and his untiring work for its betterment, he was voted a $300 increase in salary. He was given a $200 increase last year.

Rev. Willmann holds the distinction of having been rector of the local church longer than any other minister in its 75 years' history. In addition to out-ranking all other ministers here in point of years of service in Janesville, he came to Trinity church from New Jersey five years after graduating from Nashotah mission.

More than 200 members of the new Trinity church, formed by the union of Christ and Trinity parishes, engaged in the service which preceded the business meeting. Mrs. H. A. Ford, Mrs. W. P. Sayles and Mrs. H. V. Allen had charge of the supper.

The constitution and by-laws of the new parish were adopted at the meeting which followed. R. M. Bostwick, rector of the church, presided. George Richards, junior warden. Six vestrymen were elected as follows: H. V. Allen, Harry Garbutt, C. Bostwick, Frank Parker, W. P. Sayles and J. T. Hooper.

John M. Fox, veteran St. Paul railroad man, and one of the oldest members of the church, was unanimously elected honorary senior warden in recognition of his 50 years' service on the vestry. He was elected to the vestry in 1869, was chosen senior warden in 1891, and since 1896 has been senior warden.

The following delegates from the parish were appointed to be present at the church conference of the teachers of the city schools at the Methodist church Friday evening: Rev. Henry Willmann and mother, Mrs. Willmann, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garbutt, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Sayles, Misses Margaret Doty and Mary Stevens, George Kallvega and Luthardt.

Thirty couples enjoyed the dance which followed the business meeting. The Lakota orchestra furnished the music.

GIRL POSER OBJECTS TO USE OF PHOTOS

Eighteen-year old Myrtle Rogier, pretty Beloit stenographer, is suing the P. E. Yates Machine Co., one of the largest manufacturing plants in the Gateway City, for $5,000 for alleged questionnaires of her photographs in advertising circulars distributed throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico and other foreign countries.

The case was brought before Judge George Grimm this fall. The stenographer complains and alleges that she posed in different positions and in several costumes including a bathing suit for pictures which were used in advertising Yates products. She says she took great confidence in and had great respect for the editor of the advertising circular, a man who was her employer and agreed to pose with the understanding that the pictures were to be used without being made public and without any such phrases and innuendoes above them, to which she now strongly objects.

A picture of her showing the lower part of her limbs exposed was used in an advertising circular along with the picture of a machine with advertising slogans for Yates products. A similar picture is shown in another circular with still another offensive catch line, she further alleges. She also complains of a picture of her in a bathing suit. In another photo she is shown standing on a chair with her skirts raised and a picture of her in a bathing suit. A cut is shown of foot-prints of her bare feet made in the sand with a title which is held as objectionable.

Other similar pictures, a complaint filed by the girl who demands $5,000 as reasonable compensation. She has received only $2.50 for posing, up to date, she says.

COLLEGE PRESIDENTS POSTPONE VISIT HERE

All plans for the visit here of the presidents of eight Wisconsin colleges in the interests of the coming $5,000,000 campaign, scheduled for the week of October 24-31, have been delayed until after the homecoming celebration here Wednesday, A. E. Matheson, district chairman of the campaign, stated today the delegation was scheduled to be in Janesville today on the tour of ten Wisconsin cities but it was deemed advisable to postpone the visit until later, probably sometime during the week of October 13-18.

The schools represented will be Beloit, Carroll, Northwestern, Ripon, Lawrence, Milton and Marquette. The presidents are being given a reception in all cities visited.

MOVIES TO BE TAKEN OF WELCOME PARADE

A moving picture will be taken of the entire parade on the morning of the Welcome Home celebration, Wednesday. Eight hundred feet of film will be used. The camera will be in the parade alone while an additional amount will be used to reproduce parts of the Beloit-Janesville ball game in the afternoon.

The committee desires to preserve a permanent pictorial record of the celebration and it is for this reason the parade will be photographed. Final arrangements for the taking of the pictures were completed yesterday by the committee with Sanford M. Cohn, president and treasurer of the U. C. Film Co., Milwaukee.

Women Take Poison Rather than Fall into Hands of Bolsheviks

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Wednesday, Oct. 1.—Chemist shops at Archangel are openly selling poison to many young women who are buying it with the expressed intention of killing themselves rather than fall into the hands of the bolsheviks, according to an American officer who has just arrived from northern Russia.

While several shiploads of household goods have been reported from Archangel by entente powers the majority of the anti-bolshevik population refuse to leave. These people must take their chances in Archangel under bolshevik domination, which appears inevitable as soon as British forces leave.

News Notes From Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Wesley Barry.

The recent sale of Booth Tarkington's "Penrod" stories to Marshall Neilan presents, perhaps, the most interesting phase of this author's connection with photography.

Not that his first is now listed. Far from it. Some time since, "Cameo Kirby" was done. It was Dustin Farnum's first film, and it was made for Famous Players years ago. There were others, too, but "Penrod" is the most recent of the Tarkington stories to be filmed; and one of more than average appeal.

The Penrod stories have for the last several years appeared in various national magazines, including Metropolitan, American, Everybody's, and have become one of the foremost series of popular literature. Considerable rivalry has been evident among motion picture producers for the screen rights to these famous stories. It was quite apparent that the motion picture possibilities of these human stories were exceptional. Mr. Neilan is particularly gratified in being able to present on the screen the various characters which have become so popular with the American public.

Simultaneously with the Penrod announcement, Mr. Granger stated that Wesley Barry, the freckle-faced youngster who has become one of the most popular child actors in the country and who was recently signed on a long term contract by Mr. Neilan, will play the part of Penrod.

There is undoubtedly, no child actor in the business who is better suited to the part.

Yes, she's related to Volckmer sister, in fact, "Black and White," lest you didn't know, is one of George Barr McCutcheon's romances.

ACADEMY
Plans for the National Academy of Motion Pictures, to be erected in Rochester by the camera magnate, George Eastman, announced some time ago are beginning to take definite shape. Samuel Rothapel, well known in New York, has been selected as head of the academy. Lectures on the art of the photograph will be given in connection with each picture, it is announced. There will be music by a symphony orchestra of 100.

Fred Finds Children's Library Full of Books

Fred was 13 years old and in the seventh grade when he moved to Janesville. He soon became acquainted with the children at school. His best chums were Jimmy and Arthur, who lived in the house next door. Surely Fred had seen everything there was to see, so he thought. But one day after school Jim said, "Art and I are going down to the library. Want to come along? You can get an application blank and then you can take books from the library, too."

Fred thought that would be just fine, as he had heard his teacher urge the children to get books from the library.

The library was a stone building across from the park. The boys went into the building and then through a door at the right. This was the children's room. Fred saw tables and chairs and shelves and more shelves with books. Some of the tables were small, just right for little folks, while others were higher and suitable for the older children. One end of the room was cases with all kinds of birds, birds that Fred knew and others that he had never seen.

Art and Jimmy gave their books to the librarian at the desk, who stamped their cards and asked them if they wanted another book. The boys decided that they would like to have a book each. Fred, too, could get a book. Fred then asked for an application blank. He was given a card and told to sign his name and address and age on one side while on the other side his father was to sign his name and address. When he returned this card all signed he would be given a library card and allowed to draw books.

Next day after school the boys again hurried to the library. Fred had his card all signed and gave it to the librarian. She gave him a card and on this card were his name, address and age. He was told that anyone in sixth grade or over was allowed to draw two books at a time, one of these books must be a story book while the other must have a white label on it.

Fred looked around the room. He noticed that the top shelves were all white labels, and that one side of the room had nothing but white labeled books. The lower two shelves had the story books on them. There were so many, many books. Which book should he take? Why not look at them and see what they were? And that did he find? Here was something that he was interested in, wireless telegraphy. He almost decided to take one of these books, but there were others that he must look at first. There were books about animals, insects and birds.

There were books about inventions, about industry, cotton, and wheat. There were books about submarines, and books on how to make things. There were books on doll dressmaking and little cook books. He must surely tell sister Molly about these.

Looks at Story Books
He sat down on a chair and looked at the story books. My, there were so many, some that he had already read, but others that he wanted to read. On another shelf were books about artists and paintings, books on out-door life, books about hunting and fishing. Further along were books of poetry and books of plays. Fred found shelves on which were books that would surely help him in geography, because here were books on all the different countries. Some of these books were on France, some on Spain, on Egypt, India, China, Australia and others on our own country. Many of these had pictures in them.

Next to these were books on the lives of famous people. Fred made up his mind that he must read some of these, too. Then there were books on the history of France, England, Rome, Greece, Scotland, and other countries. There were books on the history of our country, books on the discovery of America, books on the Revolutionary war, the War of 1812, the Civil war, the Spanish-American war. Fred was afraid that now he would never have time to read all these books that he wanted to read.

Even Finds Fairy Tales.
And what were these? Why these were books about the United States government. And here were Bible stories, stories about the knights, and here were fairy tales. Why, here were books about everything. It seemed. Also on a shelf by themselves were books for the little folks. He must tell little sister Moll about these.

What books should he take home the first time? It was so hard to decide, because there were so many that he wanted to read. Finally he took a story book about some Boy Scouts and a white labeled book on how to make things. These books he took up to the librarian's desk. She stamped a date on his card and told him to return the books before that date, or he would have to pay a fine.

Jim and Art had also found books that they wanted, so they were ready to go.

DOLLAR TODAY IS WORTH ONLY 35 CENTS IN 1896 SAYS BANKER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Louis, Oct. 2.—A dollar today is worth in purchasing power only 35 cents of the money of 1896, Dr. Irving Fisher of Yale university, told the members of the American Bankers' association at today's session of their fifty-fifth annual convention. The price level of the United States is now three-fold the level of 1896, he said, and in modern slang, we may say almost literally that, as compared with the biggest dollar we ever had, our present dollar "looks like 30 cents."

Stabilizing the dollar in purchasing power was the economist's subject but the great rise in the price level and the fall in the purchasing power of the dollar cannot be wholly explained in the usual way, he said. "Profiteering is an effort rather than cause of rising prices," he asserted, "while scarcity of goods cannot, in this country, be alleged as an important factor."

Trading the rise of prices, he attributed them chiefly to monetary and credit expansion of which war finance was a prolific source. "On the whole," he pointed out, "the money in circulation in the United States rose from three and one-third billions in 1913 to five and one-half billions in 1915 and bank deposits from thirteen to twenty-five billions, both approximately corresponding to the rise in prices."

Taking a world wide view, the money in circulation in the world outside of Russia has increased during the war from 15 billions to 45 billions and the bank deposits in 15 principal countries from 27 billions to 75 billions. That is, both money and deposits have trebled and prices on the average, have perhaps trebled also.

The secret of the high prices, he explained, "lies in the fact that the world's war debts have been pulverized into circulating media; this first occurring in Europe but being felt in America long before we entered the war. The rise of prices has hurt those with 'fixed incomes' and helped those who take what is left—the so-called 'profiteers,' he said.

"In spite of the general impression to the contrary, wages have not, on the average, kept up with the soaring cost of living," the speaker asserted.

"Ignorant radicalism," is using high prices, Doctor Fisher said, as a lever for an attack on the economic system, but after the Civil war, when the country was suffering from the "opposite aberration of our unruly dollar" there was likewise a radicalism expressed in "populism." This, he said, died out after prices stopped falling and he predicted the present day radicalism will similarly expire when prices stop rising.

As a remedy for price fluctuation he suggested carrying "the price of gold."

"In other words let us vary the weight of the dollar, weighing it when the index numbers of prices is too high, and lightening it when the index number of prices is too low. "This can easily be managed if we have gold circulated by means of paper representatives, redeemable in whatever amount of gold bullion may be, at that date, the dollar."

Our Fall Opening Friday and Saturday, Oct. 3 and 4

Distinctively original styles, beautiful Autumn colorings and choice fabrics are the special features which transform this store during the "Fall Opening" into one of the most fascinating and comprehensive style exhibits of the year.

Here are Coats, Suits, Dresses, Gowns, Skirts, Blouses, Furs, etc., typical of a new season; each garment embodying the latest style features, combining in its development high quality and skillful designing.

Opening Days Are Friday and Saturday

and we extend you a most cordial invitation to visit our exclusive ready-to-wear store during the Opening days.

Autumn Opening

It is our pleasure to bid you welcome to the seasonable showing of Fashion's Newest Offerings.

During the dark days of the war our people denied themselves hundreds of things for patriotic and provident reasons and everybody is unsupplied with many things that were not purchased when first seemed needed.

While it is true our expectation as to achieve a greater and more elaborate ready-to-wear section, has failed, the remodeling is in rapid progress, and will soon be in readiness for your inspection.

We have spent months in gathering merchandise that we knew you desire. They are here and as far as possible specially displayed for your easy and satisfying selection.

Your interests will center on Fashion's New Coats and Suits, Evening Gowns and Blouses, while keen interest on our part show the sections of Gloves, Hosiery, Fine Lingerie, most complete.

This then is our invitation to you to visit the Store of Autumn Fashions, for that is the status of the store; come in, you will not be urged to buy save by your own desire and good judgment.

VACCINE AND THE FLU

The question of the value of so-called vaccines (bacterins) as preventative or remedial agents against influenza is still in the balance. On one side is the favorable opinion of a large number of physicians in private practice who believe they have observed beneficial results from bacterins in influenza. On the other side is the lack of corroboration by physicians who have tested out these bacterins under circumstances in which opportunity for accurate observation has been better, as in institutions. In the isolation wards of the Presbyterian hospital, Chicago, 160 nurses, members of the hospital personnel and medical students from Rush Medical college were patients. The influenza was vicious and severe, with pneumonia and other serious complications. Of the 160 patients only one, a nurse with extensive pneumonia, died. No vaccines were used. No particular drug was used, though drugs were administered by mouth, hypodermically and intravenously. The low mortality attributed by the medical authorities of the hospital to the fact that patients were promptly put to bed and kept there for several days after the acute symptoms had passed. But in commenting on the treatment Dr. J. B. Herrick observes: "I have wondered whether if I had used some vaccine or serum or other supposed specific I might not now be eager to get into print with my record of 100 percent mortality. Nay I should have been in print long before this."

Such popularity as the "vaccine" (bacterin) treatment has gained rests on statistics much less favorable, for the greater part, than the results quoted. We are speaking now of treatment, not of prophylaxis or immunization of persons as yet uninfected. In a disease having the peculiar toxic and depressing characteristics of influenza, with its peculiar character of toxemia, toxosis or white blood cell mobilization, one finds it difficult to understand how "vaccine" can help the patient in the light.

It may be well to explain that "vaccine" consists of the measured numbers of the killed germs supposed to be responsible for the con-you ought to confide the whole affair to your father or a brother, so that the young man will have the proper calling down from a member of your family.

I don't see what your parents were thinking of to let him stay until four-thirty. They should have been more watchful and ready to protect you from such an insult.

The young man does not love you or he would not have taken the other girl to the fair. He is unworthy of you and so you should not grieve because you have lost him.

Profit from this experience, little girl, and again be very slow about bestowing your affections. Do not permit boys to kiss you or make love to you. When you are older you will have more discretion and know how to meet such a situation.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: When I was at a show the other night I met a girl who had been kissed by another girl. I am, and when the show was over I took her home.

I have seen her once since then and she is angry because another girl told her something that was not true, but what she told her was disgraceful.

(1) How can I win this girl's favor or again?

(2) How can I make the other girl keep quiet, because I do like the one girl greatly.

(3) It seems to me that it would be useless to explain that your character is good. Actions will speak louder than words in this case. Prove yourself to be a gentleman and the girl will realize that she misjudged you.

(2) Do not try to make the girl keep quiet. It will not be necessary if you do the right thing and earn a good reputation and strong character. There are other fine girls and even if you cannot win this one at present, you should be able to find some one else.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We have been married three years and for the last two years have not been able to agree as we should. We were married at the ages of 18 and 21 and as we cannot get along any more we have planned on a divorce and we both agree on that. But we would like to know on what grounds to obtain a divorce.

WAITING.

You have no cause for a divorce, as far as I can see. Your husband should leave you and then after six months or so you can sue for divorce on the grounds of desertion.

SIDE TALKS

—By—
RUTH CAMERON

"He Waits on Her By Inches."
A woman was telling a group of us about a friend of hers who has just married a thoroughly unselfish man. He waits on her by inches, she said.

The eyes of the two feminine unmarried listeners glinted. "Isn't that wonderful?" said one of them enthusiastically. "I'd like a man like that," said the other covetously.

Of course she would. And yet, after all, might it not be the worst thing that could happen to her? Why should she always be served?

Suppose the man who now waits on his bride by inches actually continues to do so as the years go by. It is barely possible, you know, that he may not what will be the effect on her character? Isn't there danger that she will come to take that slavish service for her due?

And is there any particular reason that she should always be served? She is not an invalid, you know.

The Ideal Husband of Every Woman
I suppose that the ideal husband of every woman (married or unmarried) is a husband who will love her more than anything else in the world and who will wait on her by inches.

Now I happen to know a woman who has very much that sort of a husband, and I want to draw you a little sketch of her.

She Goes to a Hotel to Rest.
She has no children. She lives in a dainty little house in which a housekeeper takes the whole care. She herself declared that all she had to do for the day was to make her head and feed the toy Pomeranian.

And then, however, she gets tired of housekeeping and then she shuts up her house (she would not rent it, of course, and it apparently never occurs to her that she might look it) and goes to a hotel for a while to rest. The war scarcely a fruit lacking in this jelly making element.

Orange Pectin—One-half pound of white portion of orange peel, three tablespoons of lemon juice, six cups of cold water.

Scrape or grate the yellow from the peel of the orange. Remove the remaining white portion and pass through the food chopper. Weigh, and for each half pound allow three cups of cold water, and one tablespoon of the lemon juice for each cup of water.

Mix thoroughly and allow to stand for four or five hours. Then boil for 10 minutes and cool. Add another three cups of cold water. Bring to a boil and stand over night. Next morning boil for five minutes, allow to cool, place in a flannel jelly bag, squeeze it to remove the juice, and then filter the juice through a clean flannel bag without pressing it.

Note—Although this seems a long drawn out process, it is impossible to save orange skins for some time, putting them in a jar so that they will not dry out, then preparing a quantity of the pectin.

If the pectin is to be kept for later use pour it into sterilized jars while hot, process in water at a boiling temperature for 30 minutes, seal and store in a dark place. (Process means to cook in the jars which are set on a rack in the kettle of boiling water, after the manner employed for cold-peck canning.)

Orange Pectin Jelly—One cup of orange pectin, one cup of blackberry juice, one cup of sugar. Mix the pectin with the berry juice, bring it to the boiling point, add the sugar and continue boiling until the jelly stage is reached.

The finishing point is indicated by the flaking and sheeting from the spoon. Skim after removing the jelly from the fire, pour immediately into hot, sterilized glasses. Cool and cover with melted paraffin.

FRUIT SALAD SUGGESTION.
Some attractive fruit combinations for salads are:

Canned peaches, cherries and fresh apples, using cherry juice with the lemon in the dressing.

Canned figs, fresh oranges and pecans, using orange juice in the dressing.

Pineapple and grapefruit, using pineapple juice in the dressing.

Canned berries or fresh grapes, apples and pears, using scuppernon juice in the dressing.

Any of these dishes may be made especially attractive by garnishing them with nuts, whole cherries, berries or marshmallows.

Over the Fence It Out.
Apples—Now that the hickory nuts have commenced to fall, inquiries are being made as to whether anyone has a right to pick up nuts in the country that fall outside a farmer's fence. They have been informed that they have a legal right, but not to be too free in mixing right with might, especially if the farmer is big.

Some farmers have the habit of allowing people to harvest a bag of nuts and then take them away when the bag is full.

SHORT SKIRT SAYS, "I'M FROM PARIS"

By ELOISE.

There is no way to deceive the public this year as to whether a gown or suit is imported, for the French creations have earmarks that are discernible at any distance. The first thing one notices about them is the very short skirt. While here in America skirts are shorter for the fall and winter they have reached a limit in eight inches, but French models think nothing of going as high as 11 inches from the ground. The excessive use of fur is another French fad. Of course American suits are lavishly trimmed with fur also, but pelts are so hard to get now that most American women buy plain cloth and wear their fur scarfs and coats with them.

There is no doubt but that this suit is of French origin. It is fashioned of brown duvetyn and has the very short skirt and fur trimming. The embroidered inserts at the sides of the coat while very fashionable in this year of embroidery, serve a practical purpose also for they do away with the use of costly fur at the hips where it would get very hard wear. Sable squirrel is the fur used to trim the coat, and the collar is made in a unique fashion, tying in the back with duvetyn streamers which hang almost to the waist. The hat which completes the costume is a smart little soft brown velvet tam shape trimmed with jet beads.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

I felt like a chip being carried along on a swift current. Jim is the current. Before we were married I loved Jim's masterfulness. It seemed proof of strength and character. Now I find it is a strain of obstinacy. If not pure selfishness. And I don't know how to combat it.

First came Jim's refusal to join me in writing to Eric Sands. Then his reluctance about his income—a reticence that all my tact and persistence could not break through.

And now—but I will record it just as it happened. I may wish to read it over in my diary in later years.

"You are inconsistent, Ann, not to accept my personal allowance," Jim began at dinner. "You asked for it yourself."

"I don't wish it, Jim, until you see the justice and economy of it. It is exactly like when you and another man argue about politics. When you make a point you want the other man to be convinced of your reasoning, not merely to win."

"If you insist, I'll let you have it your way."

"I want to make you happy, Ann. If a regular allowance—"

"I don't want a personal allowance. I don't want a cake-and-ale happiness. I want, it's something more than that."

"I want to be a success as a wife, not merely a pinky-lazy-dollie ornament. I don't want a personal allowance to buy luxuries for myself. I want to put your household on an efficiency basis as you do your office. I want to feel my services are worth something definite, just as yours are."

"All right, darling, we'll see about it later. Charlie Belton's coming tonight. I don't want to talk over matters. I couldn't help looking disappointed. My dislike for Charles Belton grows with every visit he makes. "By the way, dear," Jim added, "I wish you'd try to be a little more friendly to Charles. You're animated and sweet to everybody else. When he comes you shut up like a clam."

"I'll be as nice as I possibly can. I'll make a salad and get the sandwiches and coffee ready. Shall I put on my pink dress?"

Jim looked embarrassed. "Oh, no, kitten, don't bother. We'll be talking business—"

"You're not to run over to the Nyroths or to your mother's perhaps?"

"That is typical of how I am always excluded from Jim's affairs. I would give my right hand to be like Susie Ballin, whose husband has a news and magazine shop down by the station."

Susie tends the shop when Mike isn't there, and they are partners in everything. The earning of an extra dollar is the signal sign for Susie and Mike to dance around the room overjoyed to be a real wife."

"I did not answer Jim, but as I was leaving the house I summoned an air of sweetness that I did not feel. "Auf wiedersehen," I called.

"You're not afraid to go out alone?" asked Jim.

"Indeed not," I cried merrily. "I'd like to learn not to be afraid of things if we went to New York."

Jim puffed his pipe while I might have counted six. Then he looked down toward the door and said quite firmly, "We are going."

DUTCH REUTHER IS HERO IN CINCY AS RESULT OF VICTORY

Cincinnati, Oct. 2.—Dutch Reuther is a hero here today. He is the idol of the hour. Cincinnati is crazy over his performance in the opening game of the world's series today after noon when his mighty left whip forced the White Sox to wilt, and his heavy attack knocked the last sign of hope from the ranks of Gleason's outfit.

The Reds simply pulverized the proud Sox. They overwhelmed the American league title holders by the most one-sided score in the history of the baseball classics, 9 to 1. They drove Eddie Cicotte, ace of American league hurlers, from the box before a volley of wicked hits in the fourth and then finished on Roy Wilkinson and Grover Lowdermilk, second string hurlers.

The Sox were outclassed, but they were out there fighting until the last man was out and Wednesday night they were unanimous in predicting a different story for today.

Reuther, on whom waivers were asked in the spring and then withdrawn, was the one and only hero of the battle. He pitched a magnificent game, allowing only six hits and but for a slight bit of feldling by the Sox in the second would have scored a shutout. At bat he clubbed three hits and walked once in his four trips to the plate. Two of his walks were triples. The first, coming in the fourth, drove two runs across the plate and doomed the Sox to defeat.

His second triple came in the seventh and sent another pair of red legs scampering. Cicotte, the Sox pitcher, would have been elected mayor, or governor, yes, president Wednesday night if Cincy had the say.

Cicotte's blow up was terrific. He was wobbling at the stand when the Reds scored their first run, but managed to escape further damage by falling in the fourth when Risberg's fall put the Sox in a double play. Reuther put the old master in the way of defeat. Given a break, the Reds hoped to complete an easy double play, but the old master in the way of defeat. Given a break, the Reds hoped to complete an easy double play, but the old master in the way of defeat.

There was nothing fluky about the blows either. There was a resounding crack every time ash met leather and Gleason is being criticized for not yanking the lion-hearted Frenchman.

Cicotte Way Off.

It was apparent at the very start that the shino ball expert was in difficulty. He had a railroad once getting the sphere over the plate and was lucky to get away as well as he did in the opening round. Clarence Rowland, who led the Sox to the world's championship two years ago, predicted before the first round was over that Cicotte would not go the route.

The attack of the Reds was the big surprise of the game. They assaulted the Sox curvers with a freedom that completely upset the dope about their alleged batting weakness. They stepped into Cicotte's shiners as freely as though they were batting practice. They clubbed him for seven hits in four and two-thirds innings, and then waxed fat at the expense of Wilkinson and Lowdermilk.

The Sox, on the other hand, were like putty in Reuther's big left paw. Chick Gandil picked the plate for hits, but he was the only one to take any liberties with Reuther's curving.

Hap Felsch, hero of Milwaukee's north side, went without a hit, as did Schalk, another former Brewer. Gen. Joe Jackson, Ty Cobb's greatest rival in the realm of swat, also went hitless, while Eddie Collins' single blow was an infield rap which he beat to first. The Sox were simply stopped.

Decided in Fourth.

The whole story of the game, of course, hinges on that thrilling fourth inning, which drew the best fans to the verge of nuttiness. The game was won and lost then and there and the two clubs went through the motions the rest of the way.

Not that the Sox quit. Far from it. They were out there battling and snarling and clanking at the Reds in the final ball, but they could not penetrate the wizardry that came from Dutch's sleeve.

Pat Duncan, fresh from the bushes, started the Reds on the road to triumph in the fourth with a single to right center. Kopf followed with a fast one straight down the line. Eddie picked the ball up like a flash and shooting it to Risberg, killed Duncan at second. The Swede had plenty of time to complete a double play, but he played it safe and held the ball.

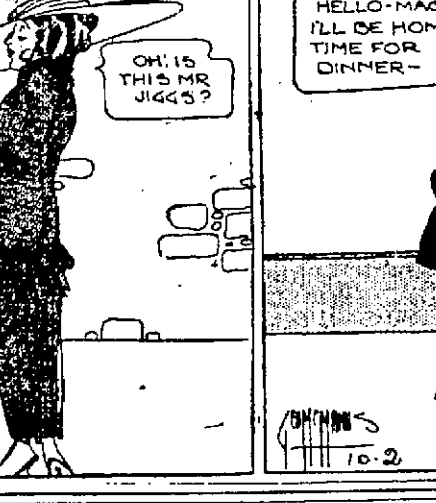

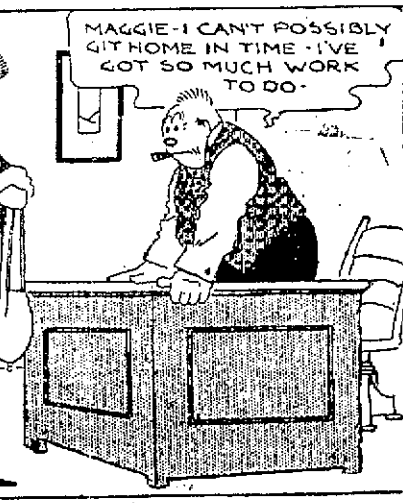

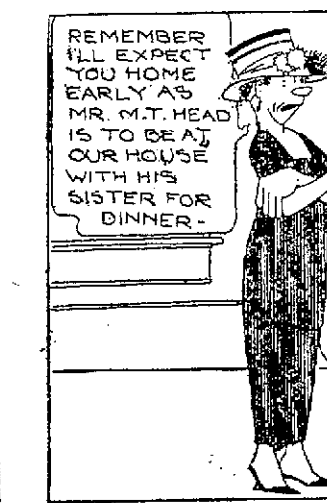

This proved the breaker of the game, though second stringer Risberg had another chance to retire the side, only to fail again. This time Neale hit a bounding single over second. It looked like a game, but a possible one, but the Sox shortstop could only knock down the ball and both hands were safe. Then the attack broke with its full force. Wingo slashed a line drive to right and Kopf dashed home. Neale galloped to third on the throw home, while Wingo traveled to second.

Fans Go Mad.

The Red rooters went stark crazy and when Reuther followed with a screaming triple to right center, the stands were turned into a seething, pop-eyed, shouting mass of humanity. Women vied with men in yelling, and screaming that encouragement to the Moran men. It was a wonderful sight.

But to get back to the game, Neale and Wingo scored on the field with the Red rooters ringing in his ears. It wasn't Eddie's day. For the rest of the game, the box score speaks a language all its own.

BRINGING UP FATHER

CLAUDE WILLIAMS OPPOSES SALE IN SECOND GAME TODAY

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 2.—With the Cincinnati Reds, National League pennant winners, leading by the sum total of one game with the Chicago White Sox are the other contenders, was resumed here today. The weather man is kind to the followers of the great national pastime and predicted fair weather for the second contest.

Should the weather prove a duplicate of that of yesterday, it will undoubtedly establish a record for world's series contests, for the Sox shone down in all its brilliance, and the temperature rose to mid-summer heat in the opening game.

Manager Picked Says.

Statements from Manager Moran of the Reds, and Manager Gleason of the White Sox, indicated that the winning of the first game had made the home team more confident, while it had the effect of making the losers even more determined to regain the ground lost. Accordingly, Manager Gleason indicated last night that he would pitch Claude Williams, his star left-hander. Manager Moran announced that "Slim" Sale would be the mound.

The winning of yesterday's game had one noticeable effect on the Cincinnati fans. The railroad offices getting the sphere over the plate and was lucky to get away as well as he did in the opening round. Doubles—Risberg to 2; off Lowdermilk, 1; off Cicotte to Gandil. Bases on balls—Off Cicotte, 2; off Lowdermilk, 1; off Reuther, 1. Struck out—By Cicotte (Kopf); by Wilkinson (Wingo).

Hit by pitched ball—By Cicotte (Rath); by Lowdermilk (Daubert). Umpires—Rigler at home plate; Evans at first base; Quigley at second base; Val at third base.

All Dope Upset.

"That yesterday's game upset the predictions of the followers of the 'dope' was indicated by the fluctuation of the betting odds, even money on the Reds finding few takers and here and there odds being demanded by those who still believe the Sox would easily prove the victors.

There is no gain-saying the fact that the Reds outplayed the visitors in every department of the game yesterday, but many who have watched Comiskey's aggregation in their pennant fight maintained that the team will show their true value before the season is over. The series will almost certainly break all records for money taken in at the gate. The first day's receipts of the high record of the first day's receipts of a world's series game made when the Philadelphia Athletics played at New York in 1911. At that time $77,359 was taken in at the gate, while yesterday $38,778 was the gross returns, and this did not include the war tax collected.

Insofar as the crowd is concerned, the business managers cannot figure any way where the attendance yesterday was exceeded today, for every available seat and every available space where a man can stand was sold.

Baseball enthusiasts were greeted by bright signs early today and it appeared that weather conditions would not interfere with the playing of the second game of the world series between the Chicago White Sox and the Cincinnati Reds at Redland field this afternoon.

The local weather forecaster's predictions for the day was cloudy and warm.

Scalpers reaped a rich harvest selling tickets for the opening contest, but an hour before the game was thrown out Jackson. Kopf pegged out Felsch. No runs; no hits.

Roush flied to Felsch. Duncan singled to right. Kopf forced Duncan. Cicotte to Risberg. Neale singled to second base. Wingo singled to right, scoring Kopf and sending Neale to third. Reuther tripled to center, scoring Wingo and Neale. Rath doubled to left, scoring Reuther. Daubert singled to right, bringing in Rath. Wilkinson replaced Cicotte. Groh flied to Felsch. Five runs; six hits.

FIFTH INNING.

Gandil singled to center. Risberg flied to Roush. Schalk forced Gandil. Groh to Rath. Wilkinson rolled to Rath, who forced Schalk, unsas-isted. No runs; one hit.

SIXTH INNING.

Roush made a fine catch off J. Collins' bat in deep center. E. Collins poked a hot single through Reuther. Rath going to third. Groh flied to Jackson. Rath scoring after the catch. Daubert was out stealing. Schalk to Risberg. Roush advanced to third, and Weaver to second. Felsch flied to Neale. No runs; two hits.

NEALE SINGLED TO CENTER. Wingo fanned. Reuther singled to right. Neale taking second. Rath lined to Risberg, who threw to E. Collins, doubling Neale. No runs; two hits.

SEVENTH INNING.

Gandil flied to Neale. Rath tossed out Risberg. Schalk grounded to Risberg. No runs; no hits.

EIGHTH INNING.

McMullin batted for Wilkinson and singled to center. J. Collins flied to Duncan. E. Collins flied to Roush. Weaver also flied to Roush. No runs; one hit.

NINTH INNING.

Jackson flied to Neale. Felsch flied to Roush, who made another sensational catch. Rath handled Gandil's grounder for the final out. No runs; no hits.

VAUGHN MAY PITCH FOR JANSVILLE IN BELOIT, SATURDAY

Either "Hippo" Vaughn, crack heater of the Chicago Cubs, or E. H. "Slim" Love, the lanky port-sider of the Detroit club in the American league, will pitch for Jansville against the Beloit Fairies at Morse field in Beloit Saturday afternoon in the first contest of the two-game schedule. Two straight victories over the proud shophmen is the slogan of the baseball committee of the Welcome Home celebration which has both game in charge—the one in Beloit, Saturday, and the one here Wednesday, October 8.

Backing up the pitcher, Jansville will have an array of major and minor leaguers whom it is believed will prove more than a match for the Fairies. Three Detroit stars and two from Washington are being negotiated with by Roger G. Cunningham, head of the committee in charge.

Charmity May Catch.

It is hoped to have as catcher for the Saturday game, either Eddie Charmity of the Washington club, the American league or Bob O'Farrell of the Chicago Cubs. Of the two men, local fans are inclined to favor Charmity, both because of his shining record with the Senators and because of the fact that he is a former Beloit athletic star and at one time lived in Jansville. Every effort will be made to secure Charmity. He would prove a big attraction to Beloit fans—if all of his relatives came out to see him play they would pack the bleachers.

Bill Lathrop, former White Sox pitcher and first-baseman for the Central State league this season, now living here, will probably be secured to cover the initial sack with Joe Leonard, the Washington American, a stellar keystone sacker, at second. George Perring, widely known third baseman of the Chicago Cubs, one of the fastest semi-pro clubs in the Windy city, will be seen with the game Saturday. That the game will start at 8 o'clock giving those who take the 2 o'clock and earlier interurban plenty of time to get out to Morse field.

It is the first time in years that Jansville has had a team on the field capable of stacking up against the powerful Fairies. Now that every bug in town is going to load up with cash and start out for the Gateway City Saturday afternoon prepared to shake the stands, some of that famous old-time rivalry which always features Jansville-Beloit contests.

How to take the H. C. L. out of clothes buying for fall

CLOTHES are high priced; all of them---good or bad. The poor ones cost about the same as the good ones--not much difference any more.

Here's some good advice; take it from us; don't try to "beat the game," and pay the lowest price; you'll get poor quality; the clothes won't last and your "High Cost of Clothing" will go up several notches.

Here's the right way; get good quality; pay for it; the wear and service you get saves for you and reduces the H. C. L.

Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes do it; they're made to give wear; your money's worth; satisfaction or your money back.

Our furnishing department, Shirts, Neckwear, Pajamas, Hosiery, Suit cases, Grips and Trunks, is complete.

Fullness Over the Hips is Leading Note of These Newest Fall Suits

SOME of the newest suits which are appearing in the shops are displaying something different in the way of silhouettes. The tendency to fullness at the sides is unmistakably a new note which is really a relief after the long season of pencil lines. Of course the suits do not go to such extremes as the evening frocks do with their wire panniers and farthingales. At the left is a practical little suit of fawn-colored duvetyne trimmed with many rows of brown stitching. It is made with a snug-fitting coat which has a full skirted peplum giving the extended hip line and a narrow panel in the back. The smart little tam-shaped hat is made of clipped beaver to match. The luxurious suit in the center is made of dragon-fly blue duvet de laine trimmed with bands of seal. Here again the flare at the hips is pronounced. The suit at the left is a straight model, but it is so unique in cut that it deserves a place with the suits that are called "different." Brown duvet de laine is the material and embroidery and dyed moccasin fur are used to trim it.

FULTON

[By Gazette Correspondent.]

Fulton, Sept. 30.—R. S. Pease has returned from his northern business trip. During his absence Mrs. Pease has been visiting at the homes of H. Pease and P. H. Pease Jr., out of the village.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Lee motored to Janesville last Wednesday taking with them Mr. and Mrs. James Ely, Rochester, N. J., who have been visiting here.

The Misses Stella Attlesay, Florence Heaght and Emma Berg attended the teachers meeting in Janesville Saturday.

Mrs. Sutherland, Frank and Sarah Sutherland, Janesville, attended church and visited at the J. E. Sayre home Sunday.

Rev. Corpe, East Troy, delivered a sermon Sunday and also sang two pleasing songs, accompanied by his friend, Mr. Jones, also of East Troy. Charles Raymond gave a solo in his usual pleasing way. Mr. Raymond leaves this week for his new home in Alabama.

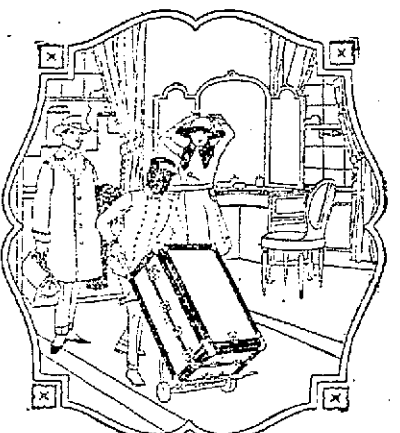

Services will be held next Sunday at the church with Rev. Corpe as minister.

Friday evening in the community hall will be the first get-together meeting of the patrons, parents and teachers and school children. It will be in the form of a picnic supper, to which any one may contribute.

It will be served at 6:30 after which will be community songs, games and a get acquainted hour.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON

THESE CHILLY EVENINGS. The dealer told us there was no coal in spite of the fact that a scientist said only this week that the coal supply would last 10,000 years. Later we have followed the example of the shipwrecked mariners who burned the ship's furniture and then the woodwork of the cabins to keep up the fires in desperate weather.

Up to date we have sacrificed the following:

Two step-ladders.
Lawn mower handle.
Three washtubs.
Pious bit.
Five suit cases.
Two trunks.
Carpet sweeper.
The kitchen table.
Webster's Unabridged dictionary.
Kipling's "Plain Talks from the Hills."

The refrigerator.
Snow shovel.
Folding bed.
Complete set of Dickens.
The dining room furniture and the hall clock should last us through the present week.

New York state man has invented a sled with only one runner. Why doesn't he do something worth while by inventing an automobile with only one tire?

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN.
"Here's how."
"Say when."
"Take the same."
"Looking at you."
"All the hair off your head."
"Decorate the mahogany."

"One more before you go."
"No—just had lunch."
"Best regards."
"Cut her down this time."

Albion, Came 254 Years Ago. Ashland—Wednesday is the 254th anniversary of the arrival of Father Claude Allouez at Chequamegon Bay. Here, four years later, Sept. 13, 1669, arrived Father Marquette, successor to Allouez, and conducted the mission two years.

Radisson and his brother-in-law, Groselliers, first visited this region, visiting the "Soo" in 1659, and making no less than four trips along the great lake, then called Lake Tracy, after Jean Baptiste Tracy, then intendant of New France. Arriving at Chequamegon Bay in 1661, Radisson "constructed the first habitation ever built by white men in Wisconsin, a little fort of stakes, surrounded by a long cord on which little bells were tied."

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about $2, and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of the cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The new modes of Autumn and Winter

Fabrics

Some declare satin the fabric of fabrics for Autumn; others pledge allegiance to tricotette. One glimpse of their Autumn charms and you will want to award the palm to both. They are rich in color and exquisite in weave. Hosts of other lovely silks also demand attention. Before the weather becomes cool enough to don wraps, woolen street frocks enjoy special vogue. Wool tricotette leads this year for that type of frock. As for the wraps themselves—you will want them made of just such fine, heavy coatings and suitings as are featured now in all the attractiveness of Autumnal tones.

$2.00 and upwards.

Suits--

Fur blends so perfectly with the fabric in many of the smartest suits of Autumn that one wonders at the wizardry of the joyous combination. Fabrics, for the most part, are of that soft texture which one instinctively associates with duvetyne, suede cloths, chamelion cord and cloths of that type. But they are not all fur trimmed. Some are quite plain, as far as trimming is concerned, but enchanting in the cleverness of their lines. Others are handsomely embroidered in self tone or elaborately enhanced by panels and pockets.

$27.50 and upwards.

Coats--

Coats of the new season valiantly uphold the prestige the Store holds in matters of presenting the season's smartest apparel. In ways varied and distinctly original they introduce new fabrics foremost among which are fortuna and chamelion cloth. Strikingly different is the manner in which fine furs are utilized to further enhance the charm of modes luxuriously comfortable, beautiful and soft. Brown tones predominate but other lovely colorings also find favor.

$25.00 and upwards.

Blouses--

Deviating from a semi-tailored path, which they, no doubt, intended to pursue, a number of the very newest blouses flaunt novel revers edged daintily with imitation filet lace. They are developed—need we say it—of georgette crepe and so are the countless overblouse novelties and Russian effects. And certainly on dreary Autumn days no one will scorn the cheering brightness of vivid reds, greens, orange and deep blues, which are shown in abundance here.

$7.45 and upwards.

Frocks--

Expressive of Autumn are the rich copper tones, which are one reason why the new frocks are so distinctive. Gaily contrasting and harmonizing embroideries beautify frocks that are emphatically Fall-like in line and fabric. Silks—those we are happily familiar with and some which now make their bow for the first time—appear in modes of delightful colorfulness. In equal profusion here are comfortable and modish woolen styles, dresses that characterize their wearers as women of discrimination and taste.

$10.75 and upwards.

ASSORTED NUTS

THE NUT WHO MEETS HIS OLD PAL AND BRAGS TO HIM ABOUT ALL THE MONEY HE'S MAKING—

THE WISHING PLANE

When Captain Brave had arranged for rooms for the little folks, Ladydear and himself at a hotel he said: "Now I am going down to the ambassador's office to get our mail." Jack and Jane did just what you would have done. They asked: "What does an am-bas-sa-dore (it was a hard name) do?"

Each one of the big countries send a very wise man to each of the other big countries as ambassador. What does an am-bas-sa-dore do? These men make sure that the people from their children and their friends had received since they left home. Of course, there were big fat letters from Captain Bold, Dr. Cheer, and all the other folks the children had met on their travels. And every one of these letters was interesting, too. But the one that made Jack and Jane happiest—although they cried for half a minute—was one from mother. Besides telling them all about herself, father and everyone else in Make Believe town she sent them pictures. There were many. Some showed her working about the house among the flowers in the garden. Others showed her and father on the porch. And still others showed other folks they knew. "I thought I'd better send these so that you little tourists wouldn't forget all about us and how we looked," wrote mother on the back of one of the pictures.

"I haven't forgotten about mother or father or any of the folks at home," said Jack. "Neither here!" said Jane. And neither of them saw Ladydear smile at Captain Brave, so they didn't realize that mother wrote it just to find out what they would say. When all the other letters had been read Captain Brave said: "I think the first place we will go tomorrow will be to Vesuvius."

"What is that?" exclaimed both children at once. "It's a volcano," said Captain Brave. Neither of the children ever had heard that word before, either, so they had to ask again: "What's that?"

"Well, the new words are coming a little bit fast for you today, aren't they?" said Captain Brave. "I'll tell you what a volcano is. It's a mountain with a hole in the center of it that runs way down into the earth. And every now and then fire, ashes and lots of red-hot mud just pours out of the top and covers the mountain side. People near the mountain are killed and houses are destroyed. It didn't seem like a very safe place to visit to Jack and Jane but they decided that if Captain Brave and Ladydear went along there was no need of worry. Copyright, 1919.

THE ROMANCE OF BUSINESS TRUE STORIES OF SUCCESSFUL WOMEN BY EDITH MORIARTY

There are many people who when they finish reading this story will not call her successful, even some of her friends are in doubt as to whether she belongs in the successful class or not. Considering her business, her share of the world's goods, and what she accomplished in her twenty-seven years there is no doubt but that she is at least entitled to the class of women who have found romance in their climb up the famous ladder to success.

The Randolphs all seemed to be distinctive people, people who did things differently from most ordinary folk. Marian's aunt, Elsie Randolph, studied music and then continued their practice. Her uncle was a carpenter, but he played in an orchestra and his wife, who had married when rather young and after scrapping and saving for a few years they both entered a university.

Wren Scholastic. Marian was not sent to school until she was nine. Until that time her mother taught her at home. When she did enter she was put in the third grade because she was so far advanced. This was typical of her whole school life. She always had the highest grades in her class and it seemed no effort at all for her to get her lessons. She studied music along with her school work and she was far advanced when she started to school. Her mother taught her music and Marian showed remarkable talent when she was very young. In high school she did excellent work in all her studies and when she finished her studies there she took the examinations and won a scholarship for college.

The scholarship paid only her tuition, however, and so she thought that she would not be able to go on higher after all, for the Randolphs, while rich in knowledge, refinement, culture and all of the finer things of life, had very little money. Finally, however, the money obstacle was getting backward scholars to tutor and teaching music to some of the younger children in the town. Her college career was nothing short of marvelous. She took the four-year music course in three and then was graduated with the highest honors.

Her college life, even though she had to work very hard for her room and board and spending money, was not from a dull, colorless thing. She attended dances, parties and other social affairs just like other girls. She went to football games and tennis matches just like the rest of them and it was at one of these school affairs that she met Ralph Walte. After she met him she became more interested in football than in anything else, for Ralph was the best player on the team. And Ralph suddenly took a great interest in music and all things musical. Just as Marian never missed a game, Ralph never missed a recital or concert.

WHY WHO used Das New

CAPT. SAMUEL WOODHILL. Now it is Kentucky's opportunity to welcome a hero from the trenches of France; he is Capt. Samuel Woodhill of that state and he is a fit running mate of Col. Alvin C. York of Tennessee.

Woodhill, who made a fine record for audacious courage when he was a sergeant. He is a Kentuckian, big, raw boned, red haired and blue eyed. He is at home on the Aquitania recently, and in his modesty made every effort to hide the three medals which hang from the right side of his uniform.

Woodhill, one of the first of the army units to enter the trenches, was decorated with the Croix de Guerre and the Legion of Honor, and he received the medal of honor. It was at Verdun, in the dark days of the winter, when the Germans at last broke through to their danger in the operating of the American army, that the Third division was held up for a time by nests of machine guns. In the sector under command of Lieutenant Woodhill, as he was called, the latter gun fire was persistent. He was the first to start to clean it out. He crawled toward the front of the emplacement and with his gun shot three of the enemy. The fourth tried desperately to push the American, perceiving that he would not be able to use his gun at range. But he reckoned without the Kentuckian, who pulled his revolver and shot him dead fairly between the eyes.

Lieutenant Woodhill's company then advanced until another machine gun nest was located. Their officer dashed ahead, regardless of enemy fire, leaped over the parapet, shot two, captured the other Germans in the nest and silenced the gun.

That particular day was certainly Woodhill's, for on reaching the vicinity of still a third nest he charged it and killed two men with his rifle. Then drawing his revolver he leaped into the pit when two Germans who had so far escaped turned their machine gun on him. The revolver proving ineffective, the big Kentuckian seized a pick that lay on the ground and killed them both with this weapon.

In one of these brief but fierce engagements Lieutenant Woodhill was severely wounded by a rifle bullet in the leg, but he refused medical assistance, made light of the "accident," and went on fighting. The wound got well of itself and without the officer's going to a front line hospital, therefore, although he comes back to Mrs. Blossom W. Woodhill (a proud woman, she) as a captain and wearing three most coveted decorations, he does not wear a wound chevron.

Pigs Come Back. Sheboygan. Joseph Holzschuh, brought two hogs and put them in a pen. The next morning they were missing. He sought the aid of the Plymouth police department. The hogs entered the Holzschuh's on their trail. The third morning the pigs were back in the pen.

She taught music to the younger children in the town.

Before three months had passed they were engaged.

Ralph was impatient to be married, but he was studying to be a doctor and he had four more years of school before he would receive his degree and then it would probably be several years before he would be able to support a wife—it looked hopeless. Then he decided to give up his career, but Marian lit upon a plan. She would marry him after he finished college and then he would go to medical school and she would continue to teach music. Ralph was astonished. He was more, he was hurt to think that she would even suggest supporting herself after marriage, but Marian insisted and of course it was finally decided in Marian's way.

A Modern Wife. Marian finished her course when she was twenty-one, but since Ralph was not so fortunate to finish his in three years they waited until he had graduated to get married. During the year of waiting Marian went to the large city near the college town and started to teach music. She was very successful, she had individual pupils at first and finally she took classes, and then she taught a few other instruments besides the piano. She took school orchestra and coached them and arranged programs for musical clubs. In fact she did about everything that one person could do in the musical line.

The next year Marian and Ralph were married. Marian gave up her work just long enough to have a short honeymoon and then she returned to her teaching and Ralph entered medical school. The following year Marian started a concertary of music at first on a small scale and later she enlarged her quarters and her teaching staff. She herself teaches very few pupils now, only the very advanced ones, for she has to direct the school and take care of the business end of it.

Is She a Success? Ralph has finished his course at medical school and is now Dr. Ralph Walte, but Marian still conducts her conservatory, which is the best school of its kind in the large city where it is located.

Bunk Car Youth Arrested. Appleton—Everett Larson, aged 17, has been arrested charged with breaking up a Chicago & Northwestern bunk car and stealing $100 worth of war savings stamps, a $50 liberty bond and $110 in postal thrift stamps from Peter Evanoff. The lad took the interurban car to Kaukauna and then caught a train there for Chicago. He was detected by local police between here and Appleton Junction and most of the loot was recovered.

No Sugar in Town. Manitowish—Not a pound of sugar is obtainable in this city and some grocers have been out of it for more than a week. The local wholesalers have not had a shipment in more than 11 days. They expect shipments this week but with the present condition of the stocks here a carload shipment would not supply the local trade.

OUR FORMAL PRESENTATION OF NEW FALL FASHIONS TOMORROW AND SATURDAY

Introducing a wonderful ensemble of the most favored Parisian and American creations to appear for Autumn Wear. No doubt you have been wondering for some time past what the new styles are like for the coming season and, if you have, this opening will present you with the opportunity to become thoroughly acquainted with them. You will also find our prices so carefully adjusted that they will more than please you, especially when you take into consideration the market conditions. Everything is moderately but consistently priced with high quality merchandise.

Charming Indeed are These New Fall Suits

No effort has been spared in order that our showing of Fall Suits may meet the requirements of every woman, whether she desires a suit of the dressy type or one designed strictly for utility. Truly comprehensive are our displays, embracing every desirable style feature and every material which has found favor for fall wear. Selections should be made now as assortments are complete in every particular, affording excellent choice.

A Bewitching Display of New Fall Coats

Fall comes to the fashion forefront with some tempting tendencies in separate coats. No past season has offered quite so much in fashions, fabrics and colorings. There's an indescribable charm in the graceful lines upon which they are designed, while the many and varied touches here and there provide an individuality exceptionally pleasing. We cordially invite your inspection of the newest arrivals.

Fashion's New Versions in Autumn Dresses

Materials are many; both silk and wool are well represented, sometimes alone, and again in attractive combinations, one lovelier than the other. There are numerous models whose chief charm lies in their simplicity and slenderness of line; and there are others trimmed elaborately and most artistically. Styles to please every taste and prices to suit every purse. To see these new dresses is to desire them.

Styles and Colors Galore in Smart Autumn Skirts

Models that show every new and approved fashion feature. When you see these splendid new models so stylish, so becoming, so attractive, you'll not be satisfied until you have appropriated one or two for your use during the coming months. Assortments and sizes are now complete and they are priced very reasonably too.

Fall Favored Dress Fabrics are herein an Endless Variety

Hundreds upon hundreds of yards of the prettiest Autumn Dress Goods you ever did see. To obtain good assortment of wanted weaves has been no simple task—to get more will be still more difficult. In view of these facts, we believe that you will appreciate the value of early selection while assortments are complete. The materials are Serges, Tricotine, Poirer Twill, Broadcloth, Velour, Spingle, etc. Every new and popular shade is shown.

Take a Peep at the New Fall Silks

These are the days when women's thoughts tend towards new frocks for the season. One has only to come to see them to satisfy one's curiosity as to what is favored by the fashion arbiters for the coming season. To see them is to be enraptured by their subtle charm. Silks of every weave, variety and color, well suited for the creation of Suits, Coats, Dresses, Blouses and Skirts for every occasion.

Second Floor—Brighten Up the Home

Let us now turn our thoughts to renewing the charm of your home by calling your attention to our new display of Rugs, Curtains, Draperies, etc., which we have just received from America's best makers. Every room is made brighter and more inviting, and of course more pleasant by the addition of a new rug, a few curtains and some draperies. Now is the time to purchase them from our large stock.

Besides the elaborate display of apparel we have clothed every section of The Big Store in its best Fall Opening Attire. An almost endless display of Wash Goods, Gingham, Beautiful Neckwear, Ribbons, Gloves, Hosiery, Trimmings, Art Needlework, Handkerchiefs, Veils, Jewelry, Hand Bags, Belts, Knit Underwear, Undermuslins, Sweaters, Petticoats, Corsets and what not awaits your inspection.

A Showing of Rich Looking Furs for Fall

You will surely make your selection from our display right now if you are intending a selection for wear this fall and winter. Richer looking furs than we have to present would be a difficult task indeed to find. Coats, Neck Pieces and Sets in the very latest styles—furs of every elegance and of thoroughly dependable quality. Present prices are nearly 25% less than equal furs can be sold for later in the season.

Fall Offers You Blouses of Seldom Seen Beauty

Here are Blouses with those masterful touches that at once distinguish them original and lovely beyond one's expectations. Designers have imposed no restrictions on their imagination in creating them. The variety is therefore extensive. Models which will have no difficulty in passing the censorship of the woman of fashion. Georgette Crepe, Crepe de Chine, Tub Silks, Voiles, Organdies, etc. So artistically adorned with dainty frills, beads and embroidered effects.

It is our earnest desire that you attend each day of this event, for we know every visit will prove pleasant.

WE INVITE YOU CORDIALLY.

REDS WIN—SCORE 10-2

KOPF'S TRIPLE IN FOURTH WITH TWO ON IS TURNING POINT OF SECOND CONTEST;
SOX PUSH TWO ACROSS IN SEVENTH INNING

(By Associated Press)

Redland Field, Oct. 2.—The wildness of Claude Williams, the White Sox pitcher, contributed largely to Cincinnati, winning the second game of the world's series today by a score of 10 to 2. While Cincinnati only obtained four hits, these came at opportune times when they had been preceded by bases on balls off Williams. While Cincinnati made two errors, one of which enabled the White Sox to score, yet great work on the part of the team in defensive play held the Sox on numerous occasions. Rousch was the particular fielding star of the contest. Sallee while he was hit frequently managed to pull himself out of several holes, where a hit was certain to produce runs.

FIRST INNING

SOX—J. Collins up. Collins out, Sallee to Daubert. Eddie Collins up. Ball one, ball 2; strike one; foul, strike two; ball three. Eddie Collins walked. Weaver up. Ball one. Weaver flied to Kopf. Kopf doubled Eddie Collins at first on a throw to Daubert. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

REDS—Rath was the first Cincinnati batter to face Williams. Strike one, ball one, ball 2, strike 2, ball 3. Rath sent a high fly to short center. Felsch making the catch. Daubert up. Ball one, strike one, ball 2, four strike 2. Daubert out, Risberg to Gandil. It was a bouncer that Risberg got in front of second. Groh up. Groh flied to J. Collins. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS. Both pitchers showed good control in the opening inning.

SECOND INNING

SOX—Jackson up. Strike one. Jackson doubled to center, Rousch missed the catch by a few inches. Felsch up. Felsch sacrificed, Sallee to Daubert, Jackson going to third. It was a beautiful bunt. Gandil up. Strike one. Gandil was thrown out, Kopf to Daubert, Jackson holding third. Risberg up. Ball one, ball two. Risberg flied to Neale. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS. The crowd cheered Sallee for pitching himself out of a hole.

REDS—Rousch up, ball one, ball two, ball three. Strike one. Williams temporarily lost control and walked Rousch. Then came Duncan. Ball one, strike one; foul strike two, ball two. Duncan lined to Eddie Collins who doubled Rousch at first on his throw to Gandil. Kopf up. Ball one, ball two. Kopf flied to Felsch. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

THIRD INNING

SOX—Schalk up. Strike one, ball one; strike 2; ball two; foul ball strike 2. Schalk lined to Rousch. Williams up. Strike one. Williams singled to left. J. Collins up. Ball one. J. Collins flied to Duncan. E. Collins up. Ball 1. E. Collins grounded out to Daubert, unassisted. NO. RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

REDS—Neale up; strike one. Foul, strike 2. Ball one. Neale fanned. Rariden followed Neale. Ball one. Strike one, ball two. Rariden flied to Jackson. It was a high one, and Joe was slightly troubled with the sun. Sallee up. Ball one. Sallee sent a high infield fly to Weaver. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

FOURTH INNING

SOX—Weaver up. Foul, strike one. Weaver singled to center. The ball going directly over second base. Jackson now batting. Jackson singled to left, and by fast fielding, Duncan held Weaver at second. Felsch up; Felsch sacrificed Sallee to Rath, Weaver on third and Jackson on second. Gandil up. Gandil drove to Daubert who caught Weaver at the plate on a quick throw to Rariden. Jackson went to third and Gandil to first on the play. Risberg up. Strike one, ball one. Gandil stole second, Rariden making an attempt to catch him. Ball two, ball three, foul, strike two. Risberg flied to Daubert. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS. Sallee once more pitched himself out of a tight hole.

REDS—Rath up. Ball one, ball two. Strike one. ball 3. Strike two. Ball four. Rath walked and the crowd began to cheer. Daubert followed Rath at the plate. Foul, strike one. Daubert attempted to sacrifice, but the ball went foul. Daubert sacrificed, Williams to Gandil, Rath taking second. Daubert laid down a perfect bunt. Groh up. Strike one, ball one, strike two, ball two, foul. Ball three. Groh walked. Schalk and Gandil held a conference with Williams. Rousch up. Ball one, ball two, strike one. Rousch singled to center, scoring Rath and putting Groh on third. The crowd went into an uproar. Duncan up. Strike one, strike two, ball one, ball two, ball three. Rousch was out stealing, Schalk to Risberg. Groh stayed on third, making no attempt to score. Duncan walked. Kopf followed Duncan. Kopf tripled to center field, scoring Groh and Duncan. The ball went into the crowd in center. Neale up. Strike one, strike two, Neale was thrown out Collins to Gandil. THREE RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

FIFTH INNING

SOX—Schalk up. Strike one. Ball one. Schalk flied to Rousch. The latter coming over into left field to take it. Williams up. Strike one. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Foul, strike two. The foul bounced into Rariden's mitt and out into Sallee's hands. Williams out Kopf to Daubert. J. Collins up. Neale was thrown out Collins to Gandil. THREE RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

REDS—Rariden up. Ball one. Strike one. Rariden singled to left. It was a line drive that Jackson fielded admirably. Sallee up. Strike two. Sallee attempted to bunt, but the ball rolled out foul to first base. Ball one. Foul, ball two. Foul. Sallee flied to Felsch. Rariden still on first. Rath up. Ball one. Strike one. Rath drove a bouncer that Risberg failed to connect with.

SEN. REED EGGED IN ANTI-LEAGUE SPEECH

(By Associated Press.)

Armore, Okla., Oct. 1.—Whether an official investigation will be made of demonstrations here last night which resulted in the throwing of eggs at United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, was the subject of discussion today.

Although several officials declared that these guilty of participation should be punished, it was pointed out that as the egg throwing took place after light wires had been cut and the building was in darkness it would be virtually impossible to identify the persons who took part.

Senator Reed left Armore late last night for the west without commenting on the riot. A mass meeting here Tuesday at which resolutions were adopted censuring the senator for his opposition to the league of nations covenant and urging that he cancel his speaking engagement.

Lost Aviators Found Buried on Beach, Is Belief of Richards

(By Associated Press.)

Nogales, Ariz., Oct. 2.—The bodies of two men, dressed in American uniforms with insignia of the aviator corps in their pockets, found buried on the beach of the Bay of Los Angeles, about 300 miles south of San Diego, are believed to be those of Lieutenants Frederick B. Waterhouse and Cecil H. Connelly, according to a report made to military authorities today by Joe Allen Richards, Chicago, upon his arrival from Guaymas, Mexico.

Lieutenants Waterhouse and Connelly disappeared six weeks ago while on border patrol duty between Yuma, Arizona, and San Diego. A mound of earth and odor of decaying flesh, Richards said, caused the search for the bodies.

VAUGHN MAY PITCH FOR JANESVILLE IN BELOIT, SATURDAY

"Hither" Hippo" Vaughn, crack heater of the Chicago Cubs, or E. H. "Slim" Love, the lanky port-sider of the Detroit club in the American league, will pitch for Janesville against the Beloit Fairies at Morse field in Beloit Saturday afternoon in the first contest of the two-game schedule. Two straight victories over the proud shopmen is the slogan of the baseball committee of the Welcome Home celebration which has both Janesville and Beloit in charge—the one in Beloit Saturday, and the one here Wednesday, October 2.

Backing up the pitcher, Janesville will have an array of major and minor leaguers whom it is believed will prove more than a match for the Fairies. Three Detroit stars and two from Washington are being negotiated with by Roger G. Cunningham, head of the committee in charge.

It is hoped to have as catcher for the Saturday game, either Eddie Gharrity of the Washington club in the American league or Bob O'Farrell of the Chicago Cubs. Of the two men, local fans are inclined to favor Gharrity, both because of his shining record with the Senators and because of the fact that he is a former Beloit athlete star and at one time lived in Janesville. Every effort will be made to secure Gharrity. He would prove a big attraction to Beloit fans—if all of his relatives came out to see him play they would pack the bleachers.

Lathrop, former White Sox pitcher and first baseman for the championship Whitewater outfit in the Central State league this season, will pitch here, will probably be secured to cover the initial sack with Joe Leonard, the Washington American's stellar catcher, and George Ferring, widely known third baseman of the Chicago Gunthers, one of the fastest semi-pro ball players in the Windy City.

One of the players, Ira Flagstead, is slated to play in the outfield with Tex Ruffel, Minneapolis American Association slugger, and Bigelow, crack St. Louis Tractor, as his assistants.

That the game Saturday will be as exciting if not more so than the one here at Beloit, is the opinion of the local baseball fans. Every man whom it is being endeavored to get to the game is a fast fielder and a heavy stickler.

With either "Hippo" Vaughn or "Slim" Love to tame the mighty club wielders of the Fairies it looks like Janesville might romp home Saturday night on the longer end of the score. The game in Beloit Saturday will have the Cincinnati-Chicago championship games backed up by the local fans. Arrangements are now being made to charter special interurbans to carry the huge delegation of local fans who are to see the first battle. Scores will make the trip in autos. The game will start at 6 o'clock giving those who take the local rush an early start out for the time to get out to Morse field.

It is the first time in years that Janesville has had a team of the field capable of standing up against the powerful Fairies. Now that chances for a victory loom so bright, every bug in town is going to load up with cash and start out for the Gateway City Saturday afternoon prepared to shake the stands with some of that famous old-time rooting which always features Janesville-Beloit contests.

NERVE SPECIALIST IS CALLED BY GRAYSON

Washington, Oct. 2.—Despite a fairly good night's rest, President Wilson was not so well this morning, and Rear Admiral Grayson, his personal physician, has called in consultation Dr. F. N. Dercum, a neurologist of Philadelphia.

Admiral Grayson issued the following bulletin at 11 a. m.:

"The president had a fairly good night, but his condition is not at all good this morning. His condition is not considered alarming, it was explained at the White House, and the decision to call in Dr. Dercum, nerve specialist, was made as a precautionary measure and to relieve the pressure on Dr. Grayson, who has been with the president almost continuously since he was taken ill a week ago, while on a speaking tour.

Dercum is expected at the White House today.

British Rail Strike
Still Unsettled

London, Oct. 2.—Hope that means mind found for reaching an understanding with the government relative to the railroad strike was expressed in a statement issued this morning by J. H. Thomas, secretary of the national union of railway men. At 12:30 o'clock a labor deputation began a conference with Premier Lloyd George and others of the cabinet ministers.

FANS ATTENDING REDS-
SOX CONTEST GREETED BY SUN AND HEAT.

CROWDS ARE SLOW

Bands Live Things Up; Policeman Goes On Chase Of Toy Balloon.

(By Associated Press.)

Redland Field, Cincinnati, Oct. 2.—The fans attending the second contest for the world's championship baseball series as well as the Reds and White Sox, were greeted today with weather as perfect as that of yesterday. The sun shone brilliantly while the thermometer registered in the neighborhood of 80 degrees at noon.

The crowd was a little slower in gathering at the grounds than it was yesterday, the grandstand and boxes being almost deserted two hours before game time.

The tight field bleachers were three-fourths filled at this stage while the pavilions were but half filled. The usual morning band concert was also missing but the numerous policemen were on the job with the coffee and sandwich vendors rescued their harvest.

Bands Come At 12:30.

The bands and orchestras put in an appearance at 12:30 and the scene became a commotion. The west grandstand witnessed an attempt of a policeman to catch a toy balloon that had floated onto the field. He succeeded in capturing it, but only with the assistance of a water boy.

The Reds appeared on the field at 12:35 and immediately started batting practice with a presser, a southpaw delivering up the offerings to the batters. Duncan received big applause when he drove a long fly into the left field bleachers enclosure.

The White Sox team came on the field at 12:40 p. m. and batted balls and forth in front of their bench.

Faber began to warm up for Gleason and at 1:30 the Reds retired to their dressing room. The White Sox trotted on to the field. Erskine Mayer went to the pitching mound and served up his batters while the Reds warmed up in batting practice. The band introduced a novelty by playing a series of twenty old time songs, including "Dixie," "Swanee Land," "After the Ball," "Sweet Home O'Grady," and "She Has Seen Better Days."

The crowd applauded each selection. Williams took his place in the Sox batting order during practice. A large number of balls were batted into the crowds and in each instance a crowd of spectators gathered for its possession. None were returned to the field.

At 1:30 o'clock the Sox ended their batting practice and the catching backstop was removed and the Reds started their official practice.

WHISKEY PEDDLERS
ARE CHARGING HIGH
PRICES FOR BOOZE

Proletarians and others who are in the habit of charging exorbitant prices for booze, were caught last night when an unknown man addressed the Johnson brothers on Milwaukee street and sold them seven pints of whiskey at $3.50 a pint.

It was real honest to goodness whiskey and after taking a drink, the boys were taken from a farm between Evansville and Drowning, were taken into custody by the police. Jens, the oldest, was arrested. Driving on this route, the oldest drunk, and his brother, Ole, was taken to the station on a charge of intoxication.

When before Judge Maxfield in the municipal court this morning every effort possible was made to find out the name of the man who is walking the streets of Janesville and peddling whiskey at $3.50 a pint.

The two men assured the judge when he could be found. "He walked up to us on Milwaukee street and asked if we wanted to buy some whiskey," Jens Johnson said. "Johnson Sugar" the stranger returned in a few minutes with the liquor.

Jens Johnson was given a line of $25.00 and was taken here for driving a car while intoxicated. Ole saved just $75 by not paying the car. He was assessed $25 and costs.

Time Ripe for Sugar
Factory; Oshkosh Ready

(By Associated Press.)

Oshkosh, Oct. 2.—That the time is most opportune for the establishment of a beet sugar factory at Oshkosh is the belief of those who have been working on the project, as it looks as if sugar prices would soar in the near future unless production is largely increased. Acting on this outlook, the Oshkosh Sugar Company has been incorporated here with a capital stock of $1,000,000 and it is intended to push the work of organizing so that a factory may be put in operation soon.

HOT HEADS WILL COOL.

The Old World continues in a state of hectic fever, and the doings of excited, selfish man add to the gloom of the pessimistically inclined in this country.

D'Annunzio continues to hold Flume, to the satisfaction of many of his countrymen, and to the chagrin of the South Slavs, who want to fight rather than lose access to the sea. What shall be done about it? The cooler heads in Italy seem to be badly outnumbered, and no one dares to oppose the militant poet. It is all very much of a mass, and President Wilson, of course, is to blame for the whole business. Flume was an ancient Roman city. To be sure, it is the only seaport available for the South Slavs, but who in Italy cares a whoop for the aspirations of the Slavs. And by what right does President Wilson presume to look out for them?

Then here we have Belgium in the act of demanding territory from Holland, and the two little countries calling their ministers home. Holland now has some territory in Limburg that belonged to Belgium a hundred years ago, and was ceded by treaty. Little Belgium, the put-upon, the victim of a covetous aggression, now wants territory! We cannot understand it.

Meanwhile the European Reds continue to rage, though they give signs of cooling down as winter draws near and their hunger increases.

Are we to help soothe Europe and placate the ambitious and obstreperous small nations, or are we not? President Wilson says we can help them by signing the peace treaty, and he denies that we will need to send soldiers to stop every little ruction that arises. Certainly the treaty, as finally adopted, with reservations, will safeguard us against using our military forces without action by congress.

Perhaps when the new concert of nations is organized after peace is established, the fears of the pessimists will prove unjustified. The most hot-blooded, ill-advised patriots cannot hold out permanently against a policy of commercial non-intercourse. No poet can defy effectively the combined authority of all leading nations, even if he is backed by an overwhelming sentiment at home.

Justice and common sense are bound to prevail soon. The force of arms probably will not be needed to settle minor disputes. The United States is evidently going to have something to say about the general maintenance of peace, in Europe and elsewhere, whether we all like it or not.

PAVING THE WAY?

Reports are now being put out from newspaper correspondents who were on President Wilson's special train that the president will seek a third term in case the senate adopts reservations to the league covenant. It is being freely asserted by gentlemen in a position to know what the president has in mind, that if serious reservations are attached to the covenant the president will pigeonhole the treaty and refuse to resubmit it to the other nations. Following that he would take the position that the senate in effect had rejected the treaty, he would demand another nomination at the hands of his party and would carry the issue into the 1920 campaign, hoping to insure himself a re-election.

This information has not caused any particular surprise in Washington. Nor will it in any way alter the position which is being taken by senators who are insistent that the rights of America be preserved. In one sense the statements, which it is not doubted are inspired either by the president himself or by his secretary are looked upon as a threat to induce senators to abandon the idea of reservations. In other words, the assertions that the president will carry the league issue into the campaign if reservations are attached are susceptible of the construction that they are meant to reach to senators who are particularly desirous of having nothing interfere with getting the treaty and covenant out of the way.

However, the third term talk is given a different construction by many public men. It has long been believed in many quarters that the president has been maneuvering about to find what he regarded as an excuse for making the campaign for a third term on the league issue. Those who have believed that this was his purpose from the outset see in the present stories clear evidence that what they expected to occur is actually occurring. They point out that the president has mysteriously refrained from saying anything that could be regarded as implying he did not want a third term.

The president professes to believe that 80 percent of the people are back of him in his insistence that the league be adopted without the crossing of a "t" or the dotting of an "i". If the president actually believes that this is true, then it follows that he believes if he runs in 1920 on the issue, of forcing the league covenant through unchanged, he is certain to be overwhelmingly re-elected. Bearing these things in mind, and knowing how completely the president wants to turn the United States away from the paths mapped out by George Washington, who was not only against entangling alliances with foreign nations, but also against third terms, it can readily be understood that there is a substantial basis of fact for the predictions of correspondents concerning the president's purposes and plans for 1920.

HOW CAN IT BE DONE?

John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers, left an estate of $250,000. That is not bad for a labor leader. It is a darned sight more than any of the laborers will leave when they die, but of course they are just workers, not labor officials, and they do not have the chance to do much else but pay in their dues so that leaders can be responsible for leaving huge fortunes. However it is, men like Mitchell who guide the destinies of the laboring man and say whether he shall go on strike even though he is satisfied, and starve his family and himself while the strike official generally dines on the best food.

Mitchell was a high grade man because he was well equipped mentally. The accusation cannot be made that he did not obtain his fortune honestly, but the fact remains that at the time he died he had a quarter million dollars. In view of the fact that most labor leaders pose as champions of the down-trodden and are the real instigators of any movement to take a man from his job regardless of his own inclinations, it might be well for our workmen to look into the financial condition of some of the men who are controlling their destinies.

When the average strike leader takes the stump, his stock argument is that the bosses are accumulating too

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

GREATEST.

"Too busy to come," said the famous man, When a neighbor called for aid.
"For you I grieve, but I cannot leave," Said the man with a fortune made.
Proud pomp replied in a similar way, "I haven't the time to be kind today."

The sick man sighed for a friendly hand And the smile of a friendly face, But the great passed by and he wondered why, And the swift still kept the pace.
They were all too-bent on their own affairs To give much thought to another's cares.

But one unknown to pomp or fame Who plodded along the way, Heard the sick man cry as he wandered by, And he turned from his busy day To sit with him for a little while With a cheerful word and a friendly smile.

For kindness isn't of time or chance, Nor something that dwells apart; It does its tasks when a brother asks And throbs in a friendly heart, And I think some day we shall come to find That the greatest man is the one who's kind.

much money; that the laboring man is entitled to his just share. That argument is fair enough, certainly, but when a labor official can boast of a quarter million of dollars as his possession, it would appear that he should remove the dollar from his own eye. That's too much money for a poor, down-trodden labor leader to have.

That first game between the White Sox and the Cincy Reds rather lowered the enthusiasm of local Sox rooters, but they are willing to lay a little coin that Gleason's bunch are still in the running.

Their Opinions

The farming interests have taken notice of the fact that while President Wilson has accorded the labor unions fifteen delegates to the economic conference to be held in Washington next month they got only three. It is quite likely that sooner or later the President may learn to his embarrassment that his sense of proportion has led him astray.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

The treaty is having a hard time getting the attention that its advocates and opponents desire. First the high cost of living crowded it out of the center of the stage for a while, and now the steel strike has usurped its place in the public consciousness.—Wausau Record-Herald.

From the fact that there hasn't been any important news from Finland for a long time it is fair to suppose that that country is one among the few that has good sense enough to get right down to business now that the war is over and stop fighting and pow-wowing about non-essentials.—Wausau Record Herald.

Business is business; still, a demand that the bodies of fallen American soldiers be brought home from France would come with better grace from some other organization than the National Funeral Directors' Association.—Appleton Crescent.

The National Republican mentions that "some more international bankers have given out statements declaring that the immediate acceptance of the covenant will open great opportunities abroad for Americans."—Superior Telegram.

Complaint of the filthy condition of paper money, but it does not remain long enough in most people's pockets so they are exposed to much danger of contagion.—Manitowoc Herald News.

Dealing with Rent Profiteers

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

New York, Oct. 2.—When a landlord here raises your rent beyond your means, you do not pay it. Neither do you move, there being practically no place left to which to move. Instead, you rush down to the Municipal building and tell the mayor's committee on rent profiteering all about it.

This committee is adjusting from 60 to 80 disputes between tenants and landlords every day, and it is roughly estimated that, so far, these disputes have resulted in a total saving to New York tenants of nearly four million dollars.

Visit the headquarters of the committee any day of the day, and you will find a crowd of protesting tenants blocking its doors, anxiously waiting for cases to be heard. It is an interesting crowd, but, for the most part, it is a crowd of people from all classes but representing a single human emotion—indignation. And as indignation is rarely borne in silence, everybody tells his troubles to everybody else with a degree of frankness he would never think of using under normal conditions. Women who would resent being asked the price of their newest hats, do not mind telling perfect strangers how much they cannot afford to pay for rent, and men, who in social circles are always boasting of their secret economies with outrageous candor.

Rent Raised Five Times
"They have raised my rent five times in the past year," complained a young business woman to her fat neighbor the other morning, and I simply can't stand it any longer."

"They know they have you," returned the neighbor bitterly. "When they raised the rent before, you could always move, but now there isn't any place to move to."

"They've raised my rent from $38 to $68," an elderly man was explaining to a sympathizing listener in a crowded apartment house. "I made a single repair, and taxes have not gone up. What is it but profiteering?"

The listener, a landlord, discreetly pointed out as an ineffectual argument that it must be that.

On the outskirts of the crowd, a woman in a sealskin cape from a Riverside Drive apartment was talking to a colored woman with a young baby.

"Don't you pay it," she said forcibly, as she turned to go. "If you have any more trouble you come to me," and flashing in a gorgeously beaded handbag, she produced a card and placed it in the tiny list of the baby.

According to the red-haired teamster in the crowd, the mayor's committee is doing the greatest work of any municipal department in any part of the country.

Landlords Don't Want Children
"They'll do what they can for you," he said, "but I guess it's very hard to get a permit to have children in their homes in my neighborhood every day, and haven't any place to go. Rents have gone up so everywhere, and the landlords don't want no more children, nor dogs nor cats."

The landlords, while not so numerous as the tenants, are equally indignant when permitted to state their opinions in the seclusion of the private office, where both sides are heard. In the first place, the law, and the courts are decidedly against them. It is clearly stated in the law that landlords shall have the right to fix the rents of their own property, and they are interfered with.

"It is perfectly ridiculous," expostulated one man, who owns a string of cheap apartment houses in a congested part of the city. "The working people are raising the cost of living by strikes, and then they kick when they have to pay for it."

Another landlord said that the trouble was you couldn't build property at the present price of building materials, and rent it for such a rate as the tenants could pay.

"The American pays too large a proportion of his income for rent," he declared. "It is 40 percent in many cases, and yet this is not a high rent. It is a return on property. Things are out of gear, but as a whole, the landlords are not to blame. The earning power of the people is not enough for the rents that must be paid."

According to Capt. J. J. Goldsmith, who is the real power of the committee, the landlords are decidedly to blame in most of the cases which come under its jurisdiction. The consideration of each case by the committee is entirely impartial. It may also be said to be original. As soon as a tenant makes a complaint the landlord is notified to appear before the committee. The tenant states his side of the case on a blank provided for that purpose, and the landlord states his side of it on a similar blank. Then the committee makes an investigation to determine whether or not these facts are true. With this information in hand, Captain Goldsmith then brings the tenant and the landlord into his office and literally argues them into an equitable settlement. The results are the triumph of moral suasion rather than of legal action. The landlord is under no compulsion to concede the slightest advantage to the tenant, but he usually ends by conceding a great deal before Captain Goldsmith gets through with him.

Sometimes these hearings last far into the night, while each side yields inch by inch. In the process the captain usually removes his coat and finally his collar. His English grows more ungrammatical with each passing hour, but his vigor remains as sturdy as ever. One landlord, departing limp and haggard from one such sitting, declared that "Gitchin has won his concessions out of him by sheer physical force."

Captain Is Man of Vision
Before Mayor Hylan picked him out for permanent publicizing committee, Goldsmith was a captain in the intelligence corps of the navy, and although he is now in civilian clothes, the little still sticks to him. He is a tall, thin, blond man, with a shrewd, heavy eye and a pleasing, clean-shaven, almost jovial countenance. You might picture him as a clerk, but his eyes tell you that he is a man of vision.

An example of the captain's skill in the matter of arbitration was afforded in the recent tenants' strike in Williamsburg. This strike, which ran for six weeks in a block of 17 walk-up, cold-water tenements, involved nearly two thousand persons and a rent total of about $10,000.

About two months ago this chain of tenements was bought by a realty company, which immediately set to work to raise the rent. Many repairs were needed on the houses, and in order to make these, the company explained, an increase of $24,000 a year had to be made in the rent. The rent total, to be divided among 450 families.

The tenants suspected the something of this sort would happen as soon as they learned that the property had changed hands, so they held a meeting to organize a strike. The landlords attempted to put the increase into effect they found a tenants' union ready to oppose it. This union appointed a committee which called on the landlords and told them that the raise was exorbitant. A great deal of bargaining ensued, and the landlords refused the raise. The tenants' union then attempted to put the increase into effect they found a tenants' union ready to oppose it. This union appointed a committee which called on the landlords and told them that the raise was exorbitant. A great deal of bargaining ensued, and the landlords refused the raise. The tenants' union then attempted to put the increase into effect they found a tenants' union ready to oppose it.

Eventually, after six weeks, the case was finally adjusted. Captain Goldsmith's office, after a day and night of uninterrupted session. The strike committee agreed to accept a rent raise of $750 instead of the proposed $24,000.

"It would have saved a lot of trouble if they had brought the rate down to the level of the first place," declared the captain, who does not believe in rent strikes. During this strike, he says, the tenants paid nearly $2,000 to a lawyer to represent them in the courts when it was a foregone conclusion that the lawyer would be unable to help them.

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haskin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information, may write a letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette, Information Bureau, Washington D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by the bureau.

Q. Is there any law regulating the length of land leases? A. W. V. Many of the states have such laws. The first such statute was enacted in Kansas at the solicitation of the American Commercial Men's union.

Q. Is the song "Coming Through the Rye" based on any particular occurrence? D. M. A. The "Rye" referred to in this song is not a grain field but a river. It is located in Scotland and it used to be necessary, in crossing it, to use stepping stones. While thus crossing, the Scotch lasses were a bit helpless and the lads often stole kisses from them.

Q. The first Sunday after President Wilson's inauguration, he started to service at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church. When he got there automobiles were marked so thickly that his driver could not find a place. He suggested that the driver go to another church of the same denomination and was driven to the Central Presbyterian church.

Q. What senators are new in the present congress? D. W. A. The new senators are: Lawrence C. Hodge, republican, Colorado; William J. Harris, democrat, Georgia; Medill McCormick, republican, Illinois; Arthur Capper, republican, Kansas; Augustus G. Stanley, democrat, Kentucky; David I. Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts; Truman H. Newberry, republican, Michigan; H. H. Burton, republican, Missouri; Henry W. Keyes, republican, New Hampshire; Walter E. Edge, republican, New Jersey; Nat B. Dial, democrat, South Carolina; David E. Ekins, republican, West Virginia.

Q. Of what is smokeless powder made? C. E. C. A. Smokeless powder is about nine-tenths cotton and one-tenth nitrate. These two ingredients combine so perfectly in burning that not even a smoke is left.

Q. There is somewhere a celebrated description of a West Point graduate. Can you give it to me? E. A. The following is probably the passage you mean: "Direct, vigorous of physique, alert and active, with mind trained to be thorough and accurate; and to take note of the smallest details in his habits, reverencing the truth, with a high sense of responsibility for every act; energetic from his respectability; he stands firm in his years of apprenticeship to hard work and unrelenting discipline with all his energies at a maximum of efficiency and his character tempered like a Toledo blade."

visit rates? I am inclined to believe that they are not.

What is going to stop the race to the skies of prices? It seems that when an opportunity arises some one will inject new prices into the columns of the papers. And very frequently the opportunity does not arise, yet prices go up and up and up.

Congress has failed to do its job in lowering the cost of living on staple articles. Now it wants, or rather some members of it want, to declare an armistice for a time and try and settle the question in the meantime. Good if they can do it, but if they cannot, who will do it? Is there some check on who should raise and lower prices? How many doctors in Janesville have they absolutely justified in raising to the schedule mentioned in last night's paper? I would like to get their views on this matter in this same column. Do they realize that there are some people who would rather die than call a doctor, knowing that they could not pay the price? Such people are too proud to want free service. It seems to me that doctors are taking advantage of a situation and it appears that their reasons are almost without weight in this matter.

High School Notes

A change has been made in the law relative to the teacher's retirement fund according to word received at the high school from R. E. Loveland, secretary of the teachers' retirement fund at Madison.

Heretofore no provision was made in the law for teachers who taught part of the day or week. The law has been amended to give teachers credit for the part time taught but in so doing a deduction must be made from the salary received for teaching part time.

Practical citizenship has been emphasized in the civics classes of the high school this year. The civics classes and oral English class went over to the court house this morning to hear the naturalization cases. Nearly 50 cases were tried today by the naturalization examiner, S. B. Wilson, Chicago, and Judge George Grimm, 12 of these were men who had been soldiers.

Stop before you start, was the caution that John Arbuthnot, instructor in physics at the high school, gave to the students who were to give the civics test this morning.

He said that pushing and jostling in the main room was all unbecoming as was jumping on the desks and running in the hall.

Many experiments were given this morning at the high school by John Arbuthnot, instructor in physics before the general science class of the Rock county training school.

At a meeting of the junior-senior party committee last evening, the date of the party was set for Friday, Oct. 17.

It was decided at the meeting to put on vaudeville stunts, as were given last year. The faculty with the two junior and senior classes will include nearly 200 people.

The committee is composed of Earl Yahn, Miriam Decker, Camille Barker, Gordon McVay, Leo Poyars, Jean McNara, the Misses Fannie Wilson, Pauline Callen and Hilda McIsner.

The community meeting for school districts 6 and 2, La Prairie and Chicago, was postponed to Tuesday evening because of the La Prairie homecoming celebration which was held last evening.

At the meeting plans will be made for a series of community meetings to be held this winter and programs which will be suitable for the district.

Janet McAdam is the teacher of the school.

Rev. Willmanns RE-ELECTED RECTOR OF TRINITY CHURCH

Rev. Henry Willmanns was re-elected rector of Trinity Episcopal church at the first meeting of the parish held after the business meeting of members of the church in Christ church parish house last evening. In recognition of his 12 years of service as rector of the church and his untiring work for its betterment, he was voted a $300 increase in salary. He was given a $200 increase last spring.

Rev. Willmanns holds the distinction of having been rector of the local church longer than any other minister in Jansville. He came to Trinity church from New Jersey, December 1, 1907. He had charge of a parish in New Jersey for five years after graduating from Nashville mission.

More than 200 members of the new Trinity church, formed by the union of Christ and Trinity churches, were present at the "get-acquainted" supper which preceded the business meeting. Mrs. H. A. Ford, Mrs. W. P. Sayles and Mrs. H. V. Allen had charge of the supper.

The constitution and by-laws of the new parish were adopted at the meeting, which followed. R. M. Bostwick was elected senior warden, and George Richards, junior warden. Six vestrymen were elected as follows: H. V. Allen, Harry Garbutt, S. C. Bostwick, Frank Parker, W. P. Sayles and J. T. Hooper.

John M. Fox, veteran St. Paul railroad man, one of the oldest members of the church, was unanimously elected honorary senior warden in recognition of his 50 years of service on the railway. He was elected junior warden in 1911, and since 1896 has been senior warden.

The following delegates from the parish were appointed to be present at the churches' reception to teachers of the city schools at the Methodist church, Friday evening, Mrs. J. Willmanns; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garbutt; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Sayles; Misses Margaret Day and Mary Steiner; George Kallveid and Luther Miller.

Thirty couples enjoyed the dance which followed the business meeting. The orchestra furnished the music.

Women Take Poison Rather than Fall into Hands of Bolsheviks [By Associated Press.] Paris, Wednesday, Oct. 1.—Chemist shops at Archangel are openly selling poison to many young women who are buying it with the expressed intention of killing themselves rather than fall into the hands of the Bolsheviks, according to an American officer who has just arrived from northern Russia.

While several shipments of bolsheviks have been deported from Archangel by entente powers the authority of the anti-bolshevik population refuse to leave. These people must take their chances in Archangel under bolshevik domination, which appears inevitable as soon as British forces leave.

It's Wonderful "My clothes are cleaner than ever before—they don't wear out so fast—and they're all ready for the line in an hour or so! I don't have to rub or wring a single thing. I just push a button and my Thor washes the cleanest blouses and finest laces and everything. That is what thousands and thousands of women are saying about their Thor Electric Washing Machines.

THOR Electric Washing Machine Why don't you turn to this modern day method of doing your washing? The Thor does all the work—there is positively no wash-board rubbing—no tiring wringing. You merely put the clothes in the cylinder, push a button, and the Thor goes to work. No washing is required, no wages to pay, no meals to serve. The Thor saves this, besides saving time and wear and tear on the clothes.

$10 Brings a Thor Right to Your Door Then a little each month until the machine is paid for. It costs only 2 cents an hour for electric current. It pays for itself in a year. Telephone R. C. 291 or Wisc. 151.

Women Take Poison Rather than Fall into Hands of Bolsheviks [By Associated Press.] Paris, Wednesday, Oct. 1.—Chemist shops at Archangel are openly selling poison to many young women who are buying it with the expressed intention of killing themselves rather than fall into the hands of the Bolsheviks, according to an American officer who has just arrived from northern Russia.

While several shipments of bolsheviks have been deported from Archangel by entente powers the authority of the anti-bolshevik population refuse to leave. These people must take their chances in Archangel under bolshevik domination, which appears inevitable as soon as British forces leave.

OUR FORMAL PRESENTATION OF NEW FALL FASHIONS TOMORROW AND SATURDAY

Introducing a wonderful ensemble of the most favored Parisian and American creations to appear for Autumn Wear. No doubt you have been wondering for some time past what the new styles are like for the coming season and, if you have, this opening will present you with the opportunity to become thoroughly acquainted with them. You will also find our prices so carefully adjusted that they will more than please you, especially when you take into consideration the market conditions. Everything is moderately but consistently priced with high quality merchandise.

Charming Indeed are These New Fall Suits

No effort has been spared in order that our showing of Fall Suits may meet the requirements of every woman, whether she desires a suit of the dressy type or one designed strictly for utility. Truly comprehensive are our displays, embracing every desirable style feature and every material which has found favor for fall wear. Selections should be made now as assortments are complete in every particular, affording excellent choice.

A Bewitching Display of New Fall Coats

Fall comes to the fashion forefront with some tempting tendencies in separate coats. No past season has offered quite so much in fashions, fabrics and colorings. There's an indescribable charm in the graceful lines upon which they are designed, while the many and varied touches here and there provide an individuality exceptionally pleasing. We cordially invite your inspection of the newest arrivals.

WE INVITE YOU CORDIALLY.

Fashion's New Versions in Autumn Dresses

Materials are many; both silk and wool are well represented, sometimes alone, and again in attractive combinations, one lovelier than the other. There are numerous models whose chief charm lies in their simplicity and slenderness of line; and there are others trimmed elaborately and most artistically. Styles to please every taste and prices to suit every purse. To see these new dresses is to desire them.

Styles and Colors Galore in Smart Autumn Skirts

Models that show every new and approved fashion feature. When you see these splendid new models so stylish, so becoming, so attractive, you'll not be satisfied until you have appropriated one or two for your use during the coming months. Assortments and sizes are now complete and they are priced very reasonably too.

Fall Favored Dress Fabrics are herein an Endless Variety

Hundreds upon hundreds of yards of the prettiest Autumn Dress Goods you ever did see. To obtain good assortment of wanted weaves has been no simple task—to get more will be still more difficult. In view of these facts, we believe that you will appreciate the value of early selection while assortments are complete. The materials are Serges, Tricotine, Poiret Twill, Broadcloth, Velour, Epingle, etc. Every new and popular shade is shown.

Take a Peep at the New Fall Silks

These are the days when women's thoughts tend towards new frocks for the season. One has only to come to see them to satisfy one's curiosity as to what is favored by the fashion arbiters for the coming season. To see them is to be enraptured by their subtle charm. Silks of every weave, variety and color, well suited for the creation of Suits, Coats, Dresses, Blouses and Skirts for every occasion.

Second Floor—Brighten Up the Home

Let us now turn our thoughts to renewing the charm of your home by calling your attention to our new display of Rugs, Curtains, Draperies, etc., which we have just received from America's best makers. Every room is made brighter and more inviting, and of course more pleasant by the addition of a new rug, a few curtains and some draperies. Now is the time to purchase them from our large stock.

Besides the elaborate display of apparel we have clothed every section of The Big Store in its best Fall Opening Attire. An almost endless display of Wash Goods, Ginghams, Beautiful Neckwear, Ribbons, Gloves, Hosiery, Trimmings, Art Needlework, Handkerchiefs, Veils, Jewelry, Hand Bags, Belts, Knit Underwear, Undermuslins, Sweaters, Petticoats, Corsets and what not awaits your inspection.

A Showing of Rich Looking Furs for Fall

You will surely make your selection from our display right now if you are intending a selection for wear this fall and winter. Richer looking furs than we have to present would be a difficult task indeed to find. Coats, Neck Pieces and Sets in the very latest styles—furs of every elegance and of thoroughly dependable quality. Present prices are nearly 25% less than equal furs can be sold for later in the season.

Fall Offers You Blouses of Seldom Seen Beauty

Here are Blouses with those masterful touches that at once distinguish them original and lovely beyond one's expectations. Designers have imposed no restrictions on their imagination in creating them. The variety is therefore extensive. Models which will have no difficulty in passing the censorship of the woman of fashion.orgette Crepe, Crepe de Chine, Tub Silks, Voiles, Organdies, etc. So artistically adorned with dainty frills, beads and embroidered effects.

It is our earnest desire that you attend each day of this event, for we know every visit will prove pleasant.
